UNEMPLOYED TROUBLE TO LABORITES

Hon. J. H. Thomas Tells House of Commons of Difficulties in Way of Effective Policy

NO MAGIC CURE CAN BE FOUND

Compares Canada's Trade With Great Britain With That Done Today With United States

LONDON, Nov. 4.—With Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and the full array of the Labor cabinet on the Government today began a week of important deliberations with a speech from Mr. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Unemployment, on the all-important question of unemployment.

The blight of unemployment in England will not be wiped out by any magic cure, Mr. Thomas said in a review of the Labor Government's efforts to reduce the number of more than a million jobless during four months of office.

NO HOPE FOR WORKERS
After Mr. MacDonald had received an enthusiastic and noisy welcome, Mr. Thomas brought a hush to the House with his outspoken admission that in "some districts the country there is no hope whatever of work for thousands and thousands of our fellow men, no matter what is done."

Nevertheless, he asserted, trade was improving and there was in the long run cause for optimism. The Prime Minister's mission in America, Chancellor Snowden's achievements at The Hague reparations conference and Foreign Secretary Henderson's work at Geneva were real contributions to the solution of the unemployment problem. "In fact, anything that substitutes peace for war is a contribution," he said.

AGAINST EXPENDITURES
He warned the British people against "filly and sentimental" expenditures, and dwelt on the development of Britain's export trade as the soundest method for reducing the number of unemployed.

In connection with the latter, he explained the difficulties met with in British-Canadian trade. He said that although Britain was Canada's best customer for wheat, the Dominion spent $2,425 in the United States for every pound in the Mother Country. He cited the Canadian Wheat Pool as a hindrance to the regularity of cargoes across the Atlantic.

He outlined schemes of the Labor Government for spending £42,000,000 ($210,000,000) in unemployment grants and improvements in railways and roads.

Bridges over the River Thames and tunnels under it, together with other schemes under consideration, called for the expenditure of many more millions.

PEACE RIVER RESOURCES TO PAY FOR P.G.E.

Hon. F. P. Burden Addresses Women's Conservative Association on Potential Developments

WARNING AGAINST RUSH OF SETTLERS

The Peace River country, with its tremendous possibilities not only in the line of agriculture, but also in coal and other minerals, together with its timber resources, in the opinion of Hon. F. P. Burden, will solve the problem connected with the Pacific Great Eastern Railway for the entire length of the line.

This was the opinion expressed by Mr. Burden at the meeting of the Women's Conservative Association, held last evening in the Campbell Building.

The Minister of Lands has had a large part of that district in the primitive method of the unemployed in all new countries, by trail and by canoe. He made his investigations into the resources in the carrying out of his duties as a surveyor, and knows the territory most intimately.

An interesting part of the address which he gave, and which took more the form of a talk regarding the situation there, was when he pointed out the various methods of tapping the country by railway.

ROUTES SUGGESTED
The shortest route, he said, in order to reach the agricultural part, would be by way of continuing the P.G.E. to Pine River Pass. There were some difficulties to overcome in that course, however, as the pass was a high one.

Another method, which would be about one hundred miles longer, would pay attention to tapping the mineral deposits found at Mount Selwyn, and then with a branch going on to the rich Inglenika.

REROUTING OF C.N. IN ONTARIO THOUGHT TO BE CONTEMPLATED
SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 4.—Rerouting of the Canadian National Railway main line so that it will pass through Sudbury and Copper Cliff is believed locally to be in the offing because of the purchase of a large number of lots in the north of Sudbury by an agent for the C.N.R.'s.

The properties purchased are immediately northwest of a transcontinental line between the Canadian National and the Algoma Eastern Railway.

From the extent of the properties that have been purchased, it is believed that establishment of a divisional point is indicated.

MR. BENNETT IS ATTACKED BY PREMIER

Has Much to Say in Respect to Statements Made by Conservative Leader in Tour of B.C.

GIVES ACCOUNT OF HIS STEWARDSHIP

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 4.—Any man who sought to stir up racial or religious prejudices was not a true Canadian, and any party which resorted to such methods would not get very far, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said this afternoon. "If you do nothing else," he urged, "try to put down this kind of thing."

The teachings of Liberalism were to be moderate, charitable and kindly to different races or religious beliefs. It was not the first time the Liberal party had had to meet appeals to race and religion.

The Prime Minister's words followed a speech by Hon. T. C. Davis, former Provincial Secretary of Saskatchewan, who condemned what he claimed were the tactics used to defeat the Gardiner Government in the last provincial election.

MESSAGE OF UNITY
The message of the Prime Minister to his own constituents today was one of Canadian unity, a picture of peoples of many races and many religious beliefs, living together without distrust or enmity. Canada was a country where the rights of the minorities were protected and those of the majorities were not abused.

Mr. King, as member of Parliament for Prince Albert, gave an account of his stewardship to the people who had sent him to Ottawa. He described the signing of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact at which he participated since he last visited his constituency. He visualized the work of the League of Nations in Geneva.

After quoting from a report of a speech of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, at Windsor last June, Mr. King proceeded.

Prince Plans To Continue African Trip

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The morning papers say that the Prince of Wales is planning to return to Africa to finish the tour which was so suddenly interrupted last year by the serious illness of King George.

It was stated that he would leave England early in January for Capetown and after a stay there would go north to hunt big game. He would not return to England until April.

These reports were taken to indicate that his physicians believe King George would be able to well stand another winter. His Majesty returned to London yesterday from Sandringham in order to attend to affairs of State.

Pay-as-You-Go Policy Discussed When Pandora Avenue Improvement Comes Up

CIVIC DEBT CUT THREE MILLIONS

Mayor Believes Anticipated Surplus Should Go to Relief of Taxes in 1930 — Action Deferred

A VERBAL battle between supporters of the "pay-as-you-go" policy of civic administration, which system was inaugurated in 1922 at the City Hall, and adherents of the method of borrowing for the construction of permanent improvements to city streets was waged last night at the City Council session, when the resolution sponsored by Alderman William Marchant for improving a portion of Pandora Avenue, was under discussion.

Alderman Marchant's resolution read: "That the city engineer be authorized and instructed to proceed with the improvement of Pandora Avenue, between Fort and Camosun Streets, as recommended by him in his report to the council, viz. by the construction of a roadway of permanent asphaltic pavement, and concrete sidewalks five feet in width on the north side of the Avenue, at an estimated cost of $36,000; and that the cost of the proposed work be charged to the general expenditure account for the year."

An amendment to the motion that the matter be referred to the estimates committee of the 1930 City Council, was moved by Alderman William T. Straith.

Violent Attack Made Upon League of Nations at All-Canada Trades Convention

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4.—A mass of highly important business before them, considerable of which will demand extensive debate before it is dealt with, delegates to the all-Canadian Congress of Labor annual convention today made preparations for a busy four and possibly five more days of sessions. The seventy-five representatives of labor organizations in every section of the country listened this afternoon to a reading of a score of resolutions submitted by affiliated bodies.

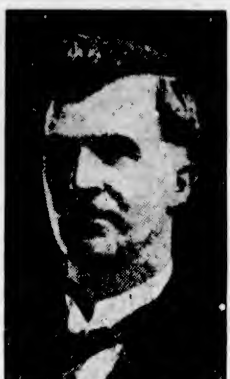

League of Nations "an organization set up and dominated by the Imperialist powers," one resolution asked condemnation of the league. Another termed the national labor of force as an "instrument of reaction and corruption."

Delegates were asked in another resolution to express their opposition to solicited and subsidized immigration to Canada. Recent actions of the Toronto police and city authorities in suppressing Communist public meetings were protested in a resolution that suggested a request to the Dominion Government.

NEW FRENCH CABINET TO STAND TEST

Premier Tardieu Will Stand or Fall on Declaration of Foreign Policy of His Government

OPPOSITION ARE READY TO FIGHT

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Premier Andre Tardieu, electing to stand or fall upon a ministerial declaration to Parliament, on Thursday will accept immediate discussion of interpellations on the general foreign policy of the Government.

In announcing this late tonight, it was indicated that the new premier was prepared to include an outline of the programme that the French delegation will follow at the naval disarmament conference in London in January. It was on Mr. Briand's refusal to reply to questions of foreign policy at the opening of Parliament on October 22 that his cabinet was defeated.

Although Premier Tardieu had expected to have his ministerial declaration ready for submission to his colleagues tomorrow morning, he found the task more laborious than he had expected and announced late this evening that it would not be ready before Wednesday morning.

MAKE ESCAPE FROM SOVIET ISLE PRISON

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 4. Stories told by thirteen refugees who had escaped from a Soviet prison on an island in the cold White Sea, indicated that sixty other prisoners who had fled at the same time may have lost their lives in the trackless forests of the north.

The thirteen who made good their escape after felling the guards who watched them labor in the forest, were discovered yesterday on the Finnish border.

The men were in a state of almost complete exhaustion and all had suffered severe hardships. They had little hope for the survival of their companions, of whom they had heard nothing since the escape.

NORTH LAND MADE TO GIVE UP ITS SECRET

Mystery of Barren Lands Is Solved When News Is Flashed of Safety of Col. McAlpine and Party — Found In an Ice-Locked Bay on Victoria Island, on Fringe of Arctic Circle

Search Has Been Epic of Bravery of Daring Men

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4.—Vanquished by man's fearless insistence, the silent North yielded up its hostages today. Eight trail-tracked explorers, lost for two months on the ice-locked fringe of the Arctic Circle, were safe tonight. They smoked and chatted at Cambridge Bay, an isolated trading post of Victoria Island, off the northern shore of Canada.

Little Change in Present State of Finance Minister

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, who has been seriously ill here the past ten days, showed no material change tonight, according to his physician. "If there is any change, it is for the better," the doctor stated.

During the last three weeks, since the freeze-up, the onus of the man hunt has devolved on a quartette of roaring ski-fitted planes, sweeping along the north coast of Canada, but while the speeding aircraft soared over the barrens, a party of friendly Eskimos, musing their husky teams over the ice, discovered the McAlpine men and conveyed them over the sea ice to safety.

Later reports tonight, picked up by the radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa, told of the McAlpine search party having landed off Melville Island, midway between the mainland of Canada and Cambridge Bay, where they are resting tonight. Both the rescue of the McAlpine party and the discovery of the Eskimo team, to proceed as soon as equipped with skis and supplied with fuel.

CROSS-OCEAN AIR SERVICE NOW PLANNED

Scheme Projected of Route From England to Canada via Greenland and With Many Links

THREE COMPANIES ARE IN PROJECT

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—Details of the projected transatlantic air service from Canada to England via Greenland are contained in information received by the civil aviation branch of the Department of National Defence.

The scheme which calls for an elaborate outlay of airports and radio beacons from Winnipeg to Baker Lake, and from Baker Lake to Cape Dyer, in Canada, is advanced by Mr. Warren Scholl, a consulting engineer from Chicago who is now staying in Winnipeg. Mr. Scholl is seeking to promote the scheme which calls for a daily service between New York and Winnipeg, using Winnipeg as the main stopping point on this continent. He plans to operate a shuttle service between New York and Winnipeg as well as between the Western city and other important population centres.

GREENLAND AIRPORT
From Cape Dyer it is planned that planes should fly to Southern Greenland, where an airport will be established on the level surface of the ice cap. From Greenland planes would fly to Iceland, to the Faroe Islands, to the British Isles, and to the Continent.

Splendid Start Features First Day of Campaign

A MOST satisfactory start has been made in this week's campaign in aid of the blind, according to the chairman of the Victoria committee, who reports that early yesterday afternoon $5,000 had already been subscribed towards the raising of $50,000 as Victoria's share towards building an institute for the blind of British Columbia.

Of this sum $3,000 has been given in three separate subscriptions of $1,000 each, and there is little doubt that another $7,000 will be forthcoming in contributions of the same size.

Subscriptions, large and small, are pouring in from all over Victoria and the surrounding district, and, although it is still felt that the success of the campaign is contingent upon the co-operation of every citizen who is prepared to make a special effort in the cause, there was a predominant note of optimism and encouragement at campaign headquarters, 1303 Broad Street, yesterday afternoon.

COUNCIL IS ADAMANT ON PRINCIPLE

The amendment was carried, with only Aldermen Marchant and Woodward recording their votes against it.

ALDERMAN MARCHANT
 Alderman William Marchant, speaking in support of his motion, said he personally endorsed the proposal made to the council by Mayor Ansonbom that there should be a ten-year programme of permanent construction and improvement of main streets in the city, but he did not approve the suggestion of borrowing money to carry out such a work programme.

"I wish to say that I concur in the Mayor's general outlook and vision for the future. The ten-year programme is an excellent suggestion, and the list of public works supplied by the engineer as a plan of street improvements is exceedingly good, and I see no reason why we should not make a start on it this year," he said.

The alderman considered that such work as improving Pandora Avenue would aid in part in "solving" the unemployment situation here this winter. Previous experience, he said, had shown that a winter programme of work was essential.

"Pandora Avenue forms a main avenue from sea to sea, and is one street we should put into order. The proposal now is to improve it from Port Street to Camosy Street by construction of a roadway of permanent asphaltic pavement, and concrete sidewalks on the north side of the avenue. This would be a permanent improvement, and the engineer has always said that permanent paving would be required," he continued.

PREDICTS SURPLUS
 Alderman Marchant said it had been suggested that this work should be done as a local improvement, but he stated that such a method would not be supported by the necessary 50 per cent of the property owners on the area concerned. It might be said that there was no money provided in the estimates for the work.

"That is true. But estimates are a very flexible thing. There is no provision in the estimates for either a surplus or a deficit. I think more than probable that a handsome surplus will be attained by the city this year, after all bills have been paid. With larger revenues that may be received from the Government for schools, etc., better land collections and unexpected balances, I anticipate that the city will have a $75,000 surplus this year," said the speaker.

The speaker said he was unalterably opposed to borrowing. The council a few years ago adopted a pay-as-you-go policy, and he saw no reason for that course to be altered. He said that in 1922 the city's finances were at their lowest. The civic debt then was nearly $19,000,000, and has been reduced until it is now nearly $16,000,000. In 1922 there was an overdraft of $285,000 at the bank, and this was increased the next year to $511,000. Only once since the pay-as-you-go policy was adopted has there been a deficit under a thirty-eight mill rate.

"Out of that period prior to the inauguration of the pay-as-you-go policy no less than 3,000 lots have reverted to the city, the principal causes being taxation and stagnation. The interest and sinking fund requires twenty-five mills on land and improvements for debt alone, if levied direct," he pointed out.

IMPROVEMENTS
 Alderman Marchant said improvements had been carried out in the past, and should in future be done without borrowing. The Victoria College had been completed at a cost of $35,000, and the Oaklands School annex had been erected at a cost of $18,000, and the council did not borrow to accomplish that work.

"I don't suggest that the work on Pandora Avenue be started until about December 1, and I don't think that more than one-third of the money for the improvements will be spent before the end of the present year," he said.

Alderman James Adam suggested that the proposal be left on the table until the first of next year, and at that time the mover of the resolution bring the matter up for consideration.

Alderman E. S. Woodward said he would second the resolution to keep the matter alive.

Alderman J. L. Mara said he personally was against the Marchant plan for improving Pandora Avenue.

AN EXPEDIENT
 "I would not be a party to anticipating a surplus of $36,000 this year," Alderman Mara stated. "The pay-as-you-go method adopted a few years ago was not a policy an expedient to improve the finances of the city which were in such a poor state."

"We have been told by Alderman Marchant that he does not gamble. Yet he wants us to gamble with the city's money; to take a chance on there being a surplus this year."

"Alderman Marchant also says he abhors borrowing," said Alderman Mara. "In 1926, when the council pledged the city's credit for the grain elevator and other projects, did Alderman Marchant get up on his feet and object to borrowing? I don't think he is consistent in personally saying that borrowing is an unwise policy, but I consider we should continue the system in vogue now, for two or three years, until the finances are better. My objection to borrowing under the ten-year plan is that by mapping out and following a programme for permanent street improvements, that such projects as the building of schools, the erection of airports and other measures that may be necessary, might be prejudiced."

Alderman E. S. Woodward considered that by spending money next month on improving Pandora Avenue, the city could aid distressed families. The sum of $5,000 spent on such a work would be a useful start. He was not prepared to vote ment to take action on the matter on behalf of the Communists.

Combination of the various national unions in the building industry into one inclusive industrial union was recommended by the resolutions committee and approved of by the congress this afternoon.

The resolutions favoring a closer co-operation between the Canadian unions and protesting against workers joining unrecognized unions, was submitted by a Calgary organization.

MINERS AND UNIONS
 Another resolution considered before the first-day session closed urged privilege of transfer from one union to another for miners, who during part of the year, were forced to seek employment other than mining. Due to lack of this privilege many good unionists were forced to join nonunionist ranks in order to earn a living. It was stated. The congress went on record as approving minor disputes have led to, but declared its inability to $36,000, as proposed by Alderman Marchant, for the work. He suggested that the matter be laid on the table for a week, and that a report be secured from the city engineer as to whether the expenditure of $5,000 on the project next month would be economical.

TAX REDUCTION
 Mayor Herbert Ansonbom said he hadn't the slightest knowledge whether there should be a surplus this year or not. However, if there should be a surplus, he declared, it should go towards the reduction of taxes next year, a reduction which people have been waiting for for a long time.

While not opposed to effecting improvements to Pandora Avenue, he believed the most important road work to be done was the repaving of wooden blocks in the city at the present time. He said he wouldn't expect improvement to a main highway to be done by local improvement.

Alderman Marchant says let us pay as we go. Yet last week he voted to increase taxes, although there was no money provided in the estimates for the same.

"I am unalterably opposed," said the Mayor, "to the Marchant proposal, for I think that if there is a surplus, it should go to the taxpayers in tax relief, and if a road policy is to be established, it should be done on a proper foundation and basis."

Alderman J. A. Worthington favored the spending of money in replacing wooden blocks in the city with pavement, considering the work of major importance to a scheme of improving Pandora Avenue at this time.

The least thing we can do, though, is to give the taxpayers a little present if we have a surplus this year," Alderman Worthington said.

"NEVER GAMBLE"
 Alderman Marchant said that he had never gambled in his life as far as he knew, and he termed Alderman Mara's suggestion that he was gambling with the city's money as "totally absurd."

He said he was ready to support any movement that would carry out necessary improvements to streets.

"We have reduced capital charges, and have reduced the civic debt $3,000,000 in seven years. I know of nothing more ruinous than to borrow money at high rates of interest and leave to future generations the task of paying for it," Alderman Marchant asserted.

Alderman Dewar said he didn't favor the Marchant proposal, but considered the Council should continue its present plan and carry out necessary improvements out of general revenue.

Alderman Strath moved an amendment, seconded by Alderman Adam, that the Marchant resolution be referred to the estimates committee of the 1930 City Council.

AMENDMENT CARRIED
 The amendment was carried, with Aldermen Marchant and Woodward voting in the negative.

Alderman Woodward asked the Mayor when he was going to bring down the by-law which would give the city power to borrow up to $1,000,000 over the next ten years, for permanent street improvements, and pay for the work by the debenture method, spread over twenty-five years.

The Mayor said that a list of public works had been furnished by the city engineer, the city solicitor was asked to draft a by-law in connection with the same, and by resolution of the Council copies of that by-law had been given to each member of the Council. The matter was therefore in their hands, he said.

MR. BENNETT'S FIGURES
 "Mr. Bennett has stated that out of our total exports of $1,363,000,000 during the past fiscal year, no less than $1,330,000,000 consisted of raw materials or unmanufactured products. If his implication is correct, the total value of Canadian exports of manufactured goods would be only $33,000,000. In the last year, Canada exported manufactured goods to the value of $458,800,000 as will be seen by reference to the condensed preliminary report of the trade of Canada, 1929. During the same year Canada exported partly manufactured goods to the value of $189,400,000."

"Again and again, Mr. Bennett has referred to the fact that Canada is a dependent country. His use of the phrase 'economic menace' is both curious and contradictory. When we sell to the United States certain of our commodities, Mr. Bennett says Canada is faced with an economic menace, because we are parting with our estate or selling our birthright. When the United States threatens to raise the tariff again, so that we are being shut out of United States markets, he says we are face to face with an economic menace. Finally, when we buy from the United States instead of purchasing at home we are again faced with an economic menace, because if the home market, which is being invaded, if we buy from or sell to, or are prohibited from selling to the United States, the result is the same, Canada is faced with an economic menace. There is the appeal to fear, if you will."

NATIVE OF CITY CALLED BY DEATH
 Mr. Walter J. Stewart died in Hospital—Long Employed on B.C. Coast Steamers

Walter J. Stewart, a native son of Victoria and a resident of this city since the eighties, passed away early yesterday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital, after a long illness. He leaves to mourn his loss his mother, Mrs. M. Stewart, Burdette Avenue; one sister, Miss Mary Stewart, both of Victoria.

The remains are resting at the B.C. Funeral Parlor on Broughton Street, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Major Robert F. Baker, geologist and radio operator, St. Catharines, Ont.; Pilot Captain Stanley R. McMillan, Edmonton, of Dominion Explorers; A. D. Roadway, Winnipeg, pilot and geologist; Richard Pearce, Toronto, editor of The Northwest Miner; Alex. Milne, Winnipeg, mechanic; John Goodwin, Hamilton, Ont., mechanic.

Wives and children of the rescued men, apprized of their salvation, were overjoyed.

Almost simultaneously the first run of the Niagara station was picked up at Regina, Saskatchewan, Ottawa as it was broadcast from Churchill, the new seaport of the Hudson Bay.

On the shore of Hudson Bay, Word can be heard, this noon, and was flashed over the wires of the Canadian Press to the East and to the West.

SNATCHED FROM AIR
 At Churchill, the original report had been snatched out of the air as a message from the Hudson's Bay Company steamer Port James, moored at Joshavani, a tiny port on the shore of King William Island, off the north shore of Canada.

With a crew of eighteen and a powerful radio set aboard, Captain A. W. Bush, in fitted his craft just two months ago as a wireless station in the North. The Port James' home port is St. John's, Nfld. But the latest message of hopes realized and fears shattered did not originate on King William Island. It came with the labored wail of a radio set, sending from young Jack McKinnon, on board the Bay Maud, anchored in Cambridge Bay, on the south shore of Victoria Island, opposite Bathurst Inlet.

When an experienced operator went on furlough, a high-powered set on the Bay Maud was shut down, and young McKinnon stayed on the job with his miniature apparatus, and today his efforts won their reward, when he flashed his message from the cabin of the Bay Maud, in which, two years before, Ronald Amundsen had planned to float across the North Pole in ice drifts.

NINE WELCOME WORDS
 The nine welcome words, elicited off by young McKinnon were: "McAlpine and party found. All well, located Cambridge Bay."

Conjecture tonight centred about the week during which the eight marooned miners walked rescue. Whether or not they had walked toward the nearest settlement was not indicated in early messages. But it seemed probable they had been located by the wandering natives of the North.

Mackenzie River Delta Pictured From Air

O. S. FINNIE, director of the Northwest Territories Branch of the Department of the Interior, made a 700-mile airplane flight this summer over the old Klondike trail, traveling from Aklavik westward over the mountains and down the Yukon Valley to Dawson City. The illustration shows his airplane being groomed for the trip before hopping off from Aklavik, on the Mackenzie River, south of the Arctic Ocean. Also seen is an aerial view of the Mackenzie delta, which extends for hundreds of miles and which is the world's greatest muskrat habitat.

EMPIRE BOARD READY TO HELP

MARKETING AUTHORITY SETS ASIDE $7,500 FOR CATTLE TRANSPORTATION

Change of Attitude to Agricultural Production Is Stressed by Report

Word has been received by the Department of Agriculture of the Province that there has been set aside by the Empire Marketing Board of Great Britain, the sum of $7,500, which will be used to assist in the transportation of purebred dairy cattle to this province under the arrangements entered into between the Province and this body.

This sum will be available on shipments which comply with the rules laid down for the assisting of such importations, extending over the year from August, 1929, to August, 1930. The transportation costs are borne by the Empire Marketing Board and the Province on a fifty-fifty basis.

There is included under the scheme, in addition to British Columbia, the Commonwealth of Australia and the Falkland Islands.

In the effort which the Provincial Department of Agriculture is making for the spread of purebred dairy stock in British Columbia, it is interesting to learn, as the department has, that the records for the present year indicate that as compared with 1922 there is a decided increase in the production on the farms along the lines of finished products rather than in the selling of hay and other raw commodities.

In the line of dairy products there has been something approaching a 30 per cent increase from the farms of British Columbia as compared with the year 1922 at the present year. At the same time there has been a corresponding decrease in the output from the farms of hay and other raw materials.

Dr. C. T. GALBRAITH CORRECTS REMARKS ON COLONIZATION

Dr. C. T. Galbraith, of Vancouver, who is conducting negotiations in London with the British Government with a view to launching a colonization project in British Columbia, corrects by cable a misunderstanding conveyed in an article on the subject reprinted by this newspaper from The London Morning Post. That article stated that Dr. Galbraith had interviewed Premier Tomin in regard to his colonization scheme. Dr. Galbraith cables that he has not done so personally and that he did not make a personal trip of inspection to the Peace River district before going to England. He denies, moreover, that he is representing in any manner the British Columbia Government. All negotiations regarding the proposed colonization scheme are being conducted with Dr. Tomin by Messrs. Huntington, Angel and O'Kelly, of Vancouver, who are Dr. Galbraith's associates in this province.

"No, ma'am," replied the convict. "They're staying here, too."

Boy Sells Paper And Then Gives Dime for Blind

Two touching incidents occurred during the first day of the work of the Campaign Committee for the Blind at Campaign Headquarters, 1203 Broad Street, yesterday.

A man who lives outside Victoria, suffers from palsy, is totally blind in one eye and 50 per cent sightless in the other, on passing down Broad Street and seeing the notices outside the headquarters, entered and handed in a dollar.

The other incident was when a small boy rushed into the office and offered a magazine for sale. Upon receiving ten cents for a copy the boy looked at it very hard and then handed it over to help in the work.

The committee is anxious to thank all of the many subscribers who have already contributed various sums to further the campaign.

CITY MANAGER FOR NANAIMO DEBATED

Question Is Delayed Though Proposal Was Opposed—Routine Business Makes Progress

NANAIMO, Nov. 4.—The regular weekly meeting of the City Council was held in the council chambers this evening with His Worship, Mayor Busby, presiding, and a full board of aldermen present.

A letter from Mr. John L. Noble, manager of the Insurance Underwriters' Association of British Columbia, was read and invited the council to attend the meeting this evening to discuss the building by-law in regard to reducing the insurance rate, etc., stated the date was inconvenient for him. Alderman Barsby said it did not matter in regard to the date as long as Mr. Noble was present. The letter was received and filed.

Applications for water tapings from two residents within the city limits was granted, also two from outside the city limits, subject to the approval of the public works manager.

Medical Health Officer Dr. S. J. D. reported the health of the city at the present time was excellent, there being very little sickness.

Public Works Manager Shepherd reported expenditures on street work for the past week as $180.50, and on waterworks as $42.90. Alderman Hart moved that the present water restrictions be removed as far as washing cars were concerned, as it was being done anyway, he stated. The motion was carried.

In regard to the city manager problem, Alderman Smith wished the matter to be laid on the table for a week. Alderman Ironside objected. He saw no reason why it should be held over after all the trouble the legislative committee went to. He wished it put before the public, and if they did not like it they could throw it out. The idea was, he said, to get someone who was educated in the matter and try to get ahead instead of behind.

After a lengthy discussion, the motion picture was laid on the table. The council then adjourned until November 18, and will not meet before then unless a matter of importance arises.

PLEBISCITE ON REPARATIONS

The fact that a plebiscite is to be held in Germany on that country's attitude towards the revised plan for reparation payments will prove an embarrassment to the Government that has accepted the plan and a warning to the Powers of signs that German patience affecting her after war finances is becoming strained. At the moment it would seem that the plan for further reparation payments will be approved, but the heat which a plebiscite will engender will create political unrest. It will have a disturbing effect in Europe. Hitherto the attitude of Germany towards reparations has been one of sullen resignation. Germany will pay only until she is strong enough to refuse payment, and her strength is increasing each year. It is significant that at this early stage in reparation payments the strength of the expressed opposition to these should have forced a plebiscite on the subject of the Young Plan.

The forthcoming plebiscite, whatever the result, is a portent that should act as a warning to the Powers. It may have been precipitated by the action of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer at The Hague in insisting on an adequate share of reparations for his country. It is possible, too, that a section of German public opinion considers that country has been flouted by being ignored in all discussions on naval limitations. Again and again, by the actions of the Powers, Germany, which once stood foremost in the hegemony of European nations, has been humiliated. This is the logical consequence of her defeat in the Great War, but it is not a position to which such a nation is likely to submit indefinitely. Organized opposition to reparation payments will grow, and it may develop faster than anyone believes possible. It will undoubtedly be given an impetus by the present ability of the German people to force a plebiscite on the subject.

A SHIP-REPAIRING FEAT

Heartiest congratulations are due to the firm of Yarrows, Limited, on account of the dispatch and skill employed in carrying out repairs to the Empress of Canada. Within three weeks of the wreck of the vessel, and despite the considerable damage she sustained, the liner was again in commission speeding across the Pacific to take up her regular schedule. It is not often that contracts of such a character are carried out within the time limit set, yet in the case of the Empress the task of repairs was done by Yarrows, Limited, a full twenty-four hours shorter than the period anticipated. This was made possible by the facilities available at Esquimalt, the executive ability displayed in organizing and prosecuting the work and the loyal co-operation of the workmen of whom ample were found available when the emergency arose.

Mr. Norman Yarrow, the head of the local firm, deserves substantial praise for what has been accomplished. It was a triumph of organization, and in the ability displayed in this respect, Mr. Yarrow was most ably seconded by Mr. John Cameron, superintendent, and Mr. "Nat" Fraser, his foreman of steel construction. The feat shows that ship-repairing facilities of the first order capable of catering to any vessel afloat exist at Esquimalt. The value of these has become greatly enhanced since the construction of the new drydock. The existence here of that facility has been amply justified. Moreover, the feat affecting the Empress of Canada will prove a big advertising factor in the port's development. It should also be a strong inducement to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to effect the docking, overhauling and repairs to its liners on this ocean at the port of Esquimalt.

A NEW ORIENTATION

Canada, during the past few years, has been introspective; has been taking stock of herself, as it were; surveying her vast areas to see what are her resources for the future. "The result of this survey," says The Toronto Saturday Night, "has been a source of astonishment, even amazement. Few, even yet, have any conception of what the future holds in store when the resources become marketable." One "discovery" made upsets all traditions. The popular opinion of the Far North as a land barren, uninhabitable, now has been proven as unstable as the tradition that the Eskimo is a small, stocky race, living upon blubber and dwelling in igloos. The journeys of Stefansson, Amundsen and the travels of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police officials, adding their testimony to the stories of missionaries and traders, have overturned old conceptions of the "Lone White Land" and reversed traditional ideas as to its value and habitability.

The glimpse of the resources of the Far North testifies to a mineral wealth hitherto undreamed of, and awaiting exploitation as soon as transportation is feasible. The vast oil resources of Fort Norman are but an augury of greater riches. There is a wealth of copper on Coronation Gulf—native copper lying on the surface waiting to be developed. This year Major L. T. Burwash, of the Department of the Interior, is making a survey of the Coppermine area, investigating the minerals of this "closed" district. Gold is found everywhere along the creeks, in fact the whole country is mineralized. There are immense deposits of coal at Cape Bathurst. Some of these deposits have been burning for decades. Franklin saw them on his first journey—the "Smoking Mountains" he called them. Mounted Police saw them when they first entered the country.

With many of the difficulties of exploration lessened by use of airplanes, a new impulse has been given to Northern enterprise. In fact, in these days of airplanes and wireless, the oldtimers consider that the country has been

"spoiled." Exploration parties have gone in by air. Miners are prospecting along the Simpson River. New routes of travel are being arranged by old trading companies, and the number of travelers into the Arctic during the present season has been far above that of recent years. The Far North is no bleak or desolate country. North of the Arctic Circle trees are found seventy feet high and thick in proportion, and north of the prairies, affording pasture for millions of caribou. Insect life, including bumble bees, flourishes. Over 140 varieties of bird life were found by one of the Stefansson expeditions, while plant life is abundant. Over 700 varieties—most of them flowering species—have been traced, and the ocean, even 1,600 miles north of the continent is rich in animal life. All the so-called "barren lands" are suitable for reindeer farming. The 1,200 or 1,400 sent into Alaska some years ago already number over the 100,000 mark. Domestic reindeer steak now is sold in the markets of New York and the larger cities of the United States, distributed from Seattle. It is very sweet and tender and considered a great delicacy. As to the cold, Stefansson states that in the ten Summers and thirteen Winters he spent in the Arctic, 55 degrees below Fahrenheit, was the limit he had encountered—no colder than North Dakota—and the Winters were more pleasant than the Summers. In fact white men as a rule prefer the Arctic Winters to the Summers, when the mercury sometimes reaches 90 degrees. The old conception of the dark treeless, frozen barrens must be replaced by the flower-decked, grassy tundras, the reindeer steppes and the great mineral wealth of the Far North, as it is being discovered today.

A GALLANT GENTLEMAN

Lieutenant-Colonel Francis A. Robertson came back from the war shattered by its strain and its wounds and decorated for his bravery on the battlefields. Despite physical disabilities his indomitable spirit remained the same and he devoted his life to the cause of the returned men. A very gallant gentleman has gone to his rest in his passing. The deepest sympathy of all who love fearless characters will go out to the relatives he leaves behind.

The British Labor Government's attitude towards open diplomacy should be disclosed during the discussion in the House of Commons on the agreement for the resumption of relations with Russia. So far as is known there are to be diplomatic relations re-established without any guarantee from the Soviet regime. The negotiations were carried on secretly, just as were discussions on naval limitations with the United States. Parliament, however, is strong enough to extract confessions on both subjects from Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and his Ministers.

THE SKYLARK

Flushed him first upon the broom-dread hill,
 Right at my feet he rose on fluttering wing,
 And filled the air with such a carolling
 As seemed to make my very heart stand still.

Up, up, he soared, on wings of pleasure borne,
 'Till scarce a tiny speck against the sky.
 He passed right from the range of mortal eye;
 One moment seen, and the next moment gone.

Hail, English skylark, to your adopted land!
 Friend of my boyhood days, so far from home,
 Where blue Pacific meets the golden brome,
 And oaks and maples on the foreshore stand.

Dost sometimes think, when soaring to the sky,
 Of rolling downland, and the smiling weald;
 Of rippling corn, and scented clover field,
 In that fair land where thou wast wont to fly?

Of cowslip-dotted meadows, where the stock
 In the lush grass could wander at their will;
 Or the thyme-scented turf upon the hill,
 Where patient shepherds watched their grazing flock?

Dost sometimes think of those sweet-sounding bells?
 Bells that have chimed a century or more,
 Sending their message both to rich and poor
 Across those sunlit fields and shady dells?

Hail, English skylark, to your adopted land!
 Welcome! Thrive welcome! With your joyous song
 —Sweet memory from that land where you belong,
 Bringing sweet memories to our distant strand.

—P.C.

Whether it be to a friend or foe, talk not of other men's lives, and if thou canst without offence, reveal them not—Ecclesiastes.

You are not very good if you are not better than your best friend; imagine you to be.—J. C. Lavater.

Note and Comment

By R. R. D.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald may not be endowed with some of the qualities that are said to be specially characteristic of the Scots, but there is one respect in which he is a typical Scot: He has "a goid opinion o' himself." He says: "We are trying to control the untamed, the unbridled nature of mankind." Administering the affairs of Great Britain and directing the affairs of the British Empire would seem to be a big enough job for any man, but it is not big enough to satisfy the ambitions of Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald. The sphere of the British Empire is too limited. The task to which the ambitious man has set his hand is the reformation of the whole world, the subjugation of the naturally wild and as yet untamed spirit of mankind.

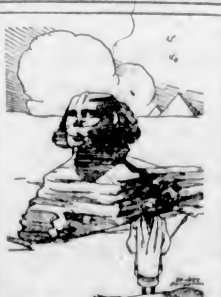

We have been charged with injustice to Mr. MacDonald in describing him as an evangelist rather than a statesman, as a seer of visions and dreamer of dreams. Man in his natural state, like every other creature in its natural state, with possibly the exception of the rabbit and its kindred, is a fighting animal. Ever since the day of an unfortunate incident in the Garden, when the first recorded eviction took place, and an angel with a flaming sword was established as a guard upon the gate, the hand of man has been against the teeth and claws of every savage beast. The animals man could not tame and enslave he killed. Sometimes the hand of man was raised with murderous purpose against his own kind. That was a battle for dominion and supremacy, and victory was to the swift and the strong. That was the origin of war.

There has been war upon the face of the earth from the beginning of time, and there will probably be war there until the end of time, although there may be changes in the form of warfare. Most of the great nations may be ripe for the abolition of war in the common and conventional sense of the term. We trust and believe that there never will be another Great War, but there will be in different forms. Great Britain is in a state of war at the present time, and MacDonald the Peacemaker is the acknowledged leader of one of the factions. The masses have organized an army for the purpose of defeating and subjugating the classes, and some of the leaders of the masses, more militant than their titular or nominal leader, make no bones about their intention of adopting the axiom that to the victors belong the spoils.

So Great Britain is actually in a state of political war, and all the world is in a state of business war, a war of competition, and the victors in that war also will divide the spoils. While the principal nations of the world may agree to disarm in the military sense of the term, they are all adopting defensive measures in the business sense of the term,—all except Great Britain, which has been deluded into the belief that her business position is so strongly established that defensive measures are unnecessary and that in open competition she can more than hold her own against a world entrenched.

Hitherto the business of a political leader in Great Britain has been administration of the affairs of the British Empire. That idea was too petty and narrow for a leader of the intellectual calibre and emotional capacity of Mr. MacDonald. The present political, social, industrial and business state of Great Britain would appear to be sufficient to tax the energy and capacity of any man, even of any man endowed with more than ordinary energy and capacity. But Mr. MacDonald dreams that he is a super-man and he says to all the wild and untamed men of the world, "Lend me your ears, hearken unto what I have to say, and you will follow me like sheep along the pleasant paths of perpetual peace!" The United States having been gathered into the fold, and Europe being gathered around the door, the Ambassador of Peace might run across to Asia and open the floodgates of his eloquence upon the wild and untamed men of China, who are busy fighting one another.

another for the sake of the spoils of office.

Miss Isabel MacDonald seems to be vastly more practical than her father. She is inclined to close her eyes and dream dreams too, but she is writing articles for the newspapers and doubtless making a lot of money out of her visit to America. She writes interesting articles too, for she appears to have a literary gift as well as the natural Scotch gift of making money and keeping it. While her father has been organizing the world for peace she has been organizing the women of the world for motherhood, we trust with the view that some day she may acquire the qualifications necessary for membership in the organization.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR: I am writing to you to express my appreciation of the article in your issue of November 4, 1929, on the subject of the fox farmers of the Gilt Edge Farm.

A CALLOUS ACTION

Sir—On Monday morning my daughter was taking the Oak Bay Car to town a few minutes before nine in the morning. Her sister, with "Patrick of the Mill" (a valuable Irish terrier, imported about three years ago) was sitting her off at the corner of Bank Street. The dog ran across the road towards another dog.

A motor driving a large car in the same direction, apparently too impatient to wait until the passengers had boarded the street car, dashed behind the waiting car, to the far side of Oak Bay Avenue, running over the dog and killing it.

Onlookers say that the wheels of the motor were considerably lifted as they went over the dog's body, but the driver continued on his way without even stopping to see what mischief he had done. Another motorist, following behind, picked up the little body and carried it to my house, my young daughter having rushed away in bitter distress. I would like to thank this unknown friend who so kindly picked up this little dog which, apart from his commercial value, was deeply loved by us.

At the same time, in common with many others who suffer from the cruel selfishness of motorists, I must express my severest condemnation of the person who killed our dog without even stopping to see what the result of his ruthlessness might be, or helping to carry away its body. This, as far as he was concerned, was to be undertaken by its young mistress.

Motorists seem to have produced a goodly amount of selfishness in this present day. Our lives and the lives of children and animals are not safe, although they surely deserve to be more considered than the business or pleasure engagements of the motorist.

Only the other day I had to pull a child of about four years of age out of the way of a car passing near the Willows school by seizing it by its cap. The driver passed on and paid no attention to the fact that he had nearly killed this child, and this in spite of regulations that compel motorists to slow down when nearing a school.

For the safety of the public it is imperative that stringent action be taken to curb the activities of these selfish and indifferent individuals who disturb our peace and happiness by their thoughtless ways.

AGNES E. WILLIAMSON.

THE SIGN BY-LAW

Sir—I see in today's issue a letter written by Mr. Shanks. The remarks re business men are a long way off the mark. In real estate is not a business, why do they ask us to pay a business licence? No, Mr. Shanks, you are wrong there, and remember, no matter what a man is, if he has the ability, he has it being in business does not give it to him. We have good, bad and indifferent in all walks of life, so please find some other excuse to belittle our fathers. We know we want the best men we can get to run city affairs, but talking and writing letters to the press get us nowhere.

Whereas in Victoria, as elsewhere in the world, is men who can get out and do things. So, Mr. Shanks if you have some real good suggestions to make to the city fathers, get busy and send them down to the City Hall. They will appreciate them if they are good ones. Also there will be a chance soon to run for alderman yourself and if you have the opportunity to show your ability, of which, no doubt, you have plenty, and that, sure, is what we want.

J. W. ARCHER.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Macnae

NEVER THOUGHT OF BEAUTY
 Never thought of beauty for the eye
 Which lingers hungrily on every scene
 That can reveal new wonders in the sky.

New eloquence of meadows fresh and green,
 Always men go intent upon the quest
 For splendours such as flowered men of Greece,
 Majestic loveliness that fills the breast.

With peace transcending any earthly peace,
 Never enough of beauty for the soul
 Which on ethereal substance must be fed.
 Demanding beauty for its way, its goal.

And talking beauty for its wine, its bread,
 Never enough of beauty till at last
 Into the Realm of Beauty it has passed.

Barber—Will you have anything on your face, sir, after your shave?
 Customer—Yes, my nose, I hope.

BUYER TELLS FOX FARMERS ABOUT PELTS

Representative of London Fur Dealers Explains Marketing Features to Gathering at Gilt Edge Farm

FOXES EXHIBITED OF HIGH STANDARD

Mr. George Mayer, of Frederick Huth Fur Sales Company, of London, England, and New York, gave a demonstration on foxes at the Gilt Edge Fox Farms yesterday afternoon to a large number of breeders. Practically all the fox farmers of the southern end of the Island were present, and among the outside visitors were Mr. D. W. Treater, owner of the famous purple line foxes of Alberta; Capt. Ian J. Mackenzie, of Maple Bay; Mrs. Hulley, of Sooke; Mr. Ash, of Albert Head; and Mr. J. C. Crothers, of Vancouver.

Mr. Mayer expressed himself as most favorably impressed with the quality of fur raised here, and assured every breeder present that his company was certainly anxious to get some of this good fox fur.

Especially did this refer to the dark crosses, such as he had seen here from the Gold Cross Farms, and he assured the breeders that it was a step in the right direction for the industry to take up his new phase of fox farming.

He also announced that his company was appointing Mr. D. M. McDonald, of the Gilt Edge Fox Company, Limited, as its representative here. He said that Mr. McDonald shipped furs to their firm in London fifteen years ago, and was no stranger to the company.

OF EXTRA QUALITY

Mr. Mayer stated that he could see no reason why Vancouver Island should not be one of the great fur centres on the North American Continent in the near future, as he was fully convinced that fur of extra shine and texture could be raised here, judging by the numerous animals he had inspected during his visit. He also congratulated the fox farmers on their excellent equipment and sanitary conditions, which went a long way to perfect a good pelt. He said the reason for his visit here was largely to help the breeders improve the quality of foxes by pointing out the weaker characteristics, and also to impress upon the breeders not to confine themselves to one line of foxes.

Mr. Mayer told his hearers that color in foxes should be the first consideration of the breeder. A great many breeders had the idea that the more medium pelts, this was not just what the market required. Whether three-quarters or medium, they must have the blue characteristics to bring the best prices, the stronger the blue the better. Too light under-coloring was a disadvantage in the hide, but did not matter so much in the brush. The skins must be bluish-black, with no brown in the black foxes, while a cross fox without silver was not desirable. Above all things they must understand that it is impossible to get good values out of a loud article. Nest pelts were mostly wanted at all times.

FUR FASHIONS CHANGE

It must be remembered, too, that the fur which was most desired today might have very little value next year. Fashions change, and furs change with them; but whatever changes took place, it was a certainty that what had been in favor once would surely come back again. The fur business was an industry today and not a luxury any more. Wild fur was becoming extremely scarce all the time and the fur dealers were paying better prices for raised pelts than they were paying for the wild, one of the reasons being, the pelt of a domesticated fox could be always taken when prime, this is not so in the wild article. From the foxes he had seen since coming on the Island, Mr. Mayer stated that the breeders had nothing to be ashamed of in submitting their pelts to the fur houses.

Mr. Mayer will leave tonight for Calgary.

FOG AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4.—The first dense fog of the Fall season spread over Vancouver at 5 a.m. and covered the lower Mainland from the tip of Point Grey to far up the Fraser River before it lifted towards 10 a.m.

Vancouver found the fog varied in intensity, especially in the suburban districts. Slight delays were occasioned in street car schedules.

AN AUTUMN DAY

Let others sing of leafy Spring,
 Of May and moonlit roses:
 Mine be the joy without alloy,
 An Autumn day discloses
 The golden flash, the crimson splash
 Of woodland ways enchanting,
 The blissful song of birds among
 Their native haunts descending.

Mine be the path, the aftermath
 Of sunshine and of showers,
 Where dreams suffuse with glittering hues
 Wan Winter's gloomy bowers.

Let others sing of leafy Spring,
 Of May and moonlit roses:
 But mine the joy without alloy,
 An Autumn day discloses!

SETTLERS IN FAR PLACES HEAR GOSPEL

Miss Hassell Tells Large Audience of Conditions in Northern Portions of the Province

PEOPLE ISOLATED MANY INSTANCES

Bringing an interesting message to the people of Victoria who had contributed so generously to the objectives of the Mission caravan last year, Miss Eva Hassell told a gathering which thronged Memorial Hall last evening of conditions that existed in the outlying districts of the province, particularly those sections adjacent to the Bulkley Valley and the Dominion Government Block south of the Peace River in the northeastern corner of British Columbia. In connection with the latter, Miss Hassell stated that settlers were pouring in there in a continual stream. A year and a half ago the number of people in the Government Block were three thousand, today there are between five and six thousand, and the Government Agent in that district had informed her. This section was really the best in all the North, and she wanted the good folk of the province to know that it was in British Columbia. It was wonderfully fertile, the crops there this season being excellent.

Miss Hassell's talk consisted mainly of references to the difficulties under which settlers existed on the fringe of civilization. Particularly in the lake section, south of Burns, they are very isolated, deaths being frequent among the children because of lack of medical attention, it being impossible to get a sick person to a doctor or a hospital where none exist except at great distances. Children were encountered in a number of places who had never had the advantages of living in a city and had never heard the singing of a church choir until they listened to the records of the caravan gramophone.

TRAGEDY AND COMEDY
Tragedy and comedy both had a place in her descriptive story of the pioneers of the northern portions of the province. She instanced the circumstances of a settler's wife taking food to her husband working in a field some distance from the home, where two small children were left in the meantime, the house being destroyed by fire and the children burned to death.

The Indian cemetery at Hazelton was a source of interest, the inscriptions on the tombs being original. Arrows and sewing machines decorated the graves and were evidently necessary for the departed in the after-life. Experiences on the newly-made roads of Northern Alberta were amusing to the audience, but must have been patience-racking at the time of happening. One old chap she met said there were so many people coming into the country that he had moved farther back and built a shack in the bush so as to be alone.

To get from the Bulkley section of the Diocese of Caledonia to the British Columbia coast was a trip of one thousand miles by way of Edmonton and Slave Lake to Fort St. John, where there were some five hundred people, and gasoline was 60 cents a gallon. The scenery of the Peace was inspiring. The satisfaction of bringing cheer to the people in these outlying districts was worth all the difficulties encountered, and if the people who contributed so generously could only see the good accomplished as a result they would feel well rewarded.

The talk was splendidly illustrated with slides made from pictures taken during the travels of the caravan, the lantern being operated by Mr. J. Howard Chapman. In introducing the speaker, the Dean of Columbia, who acted as chairman, complimented the audience on being seated well on time. There were three things he stated that were in favor of the church. These were punctuality, collections and the payment of dues. After the lecture was concluded, a vote of thanks was tendered Miss Hassell by the audience, and to Mr. Chapman by Dean Quinlan.

HORTICULTURE UP TO DATE IS SPEAKER'S THEME

Professor A. F. Barrs, of the University of British Columbia, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society tonight at the City Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. "Horticulture Up to Date" is the chosen topic, and in the course of his remarks Professor Barrs will contrast former results in horticulture with those now being made possible by recent advances in the use of water and soil, and the use of fertilizers. In the relation of physiology, anatomy, genetics have shown the value of plant research in relation to practical problems connected with the growing and fruiting of horticultural plants. Numerous illustrations will be given showing what has been done, and at the conclusion questions will be invited. A cordial invitation to the public is extended.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

AN INFLAMED STOMACH
When your doctor tells you that you have gastritis, he does not mean that you have gas, but he means that you have an inflammation of your stomach. As acute attack of gastritis may be very disturbing, often being accompanied by vomiting and a knowledge that the food is remaining in the stomach for a much longer period than it should. There may also be a severe headache, usually in the head, and certain, or the whole back and base of the skull may feel ready to burst. This is accompanied by a feverish feeling and very unpleasant breath with profuse muscular fatigue, with repugnance toward any food whatever. Following the severe pains of the stomach there may be some diarrhoea which may remain for a few hours or a few days and upon pressing the stomach it will be found tender and sensitive and the muscles often as hard as a washboard.

An attack of this nature frequently follows the eating of foods which the patient knows he is intolerant to, such as pickles, berries, or certain berries, or it may come on after eating an unusual dish or foreign mixture, such as rich Oriental, Chinese or Spanish dishes. Those with delicate stomachs are especially predisposed toward attacks of acute gastritis.

Because of the inflammation of the stomach, it is advisable to fast for a few days, using no solid food whatever, but drinking large quantities of water and using an enema until the poisonous substances have been entirely eliminated.

Chronic gastritis is usually the result of many years of dietetic indiscretions, and is much harder to cure than acute gastritis. It is usually overeating or swallowing food hastily and in large chunks, or the continual use of strong condiments, or using foods containing large amounts of grease, or drinking gulps of cold water, or eating irregularly and in between meals will all tend to factors in producing chronic gastritis.

Sometimes large quantities of mucus may be present in the stomach, although this is not always the case. The consumption of strong stimulants upon an empty stomach often result in chronic gastritis. One affected with this disease will seem to have a heavy lump in the stomach after eating any food, and the patients usually believe that their stomachs will never behave as a normal stomach should as long as they live.

Sometimes when there is a pronounced pain in the stomach, the patient may find that the pain is relieved after eating, and he is constantly tempted to take in more food, which actually prevents recovery.

In many cases, patients suffering from chronic gastritis will be under the impression they are continually hungry. This is because the pain from the inflamed lining of the stomach is registered in the same portion of the brain as hunger, and the two sensations are confused.

Chronic gastritis should be cleared up as soon as possible, because if it is allowed to continue it frequently results in ulcers or a destruction of the glands producing the stomach digestive juices. Cancer may even result when this condition continued for a long period of time.

DANCE AT SAANICH SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

In the beautifully decorated North Saanich dance hall, the annual Halloween party of the North Saanich Social Club was held on October 31. The excellent orchestra, seated on the platform, which was gaily decorated with Halloween symbols and a witch with her cauldron, played a programme of the latest dance numbers, the dancers enthusiastically endorsing each section. A specially prepared and sumptuous supper was served by the ladies' committee, and later in the evening the Pilmley & Ritchie boys organized a competition of guessing the number of strokes needed to burst a bicycle tube with a pump. One of the visiting ladies won the prize. The dance was brought to a close at 1 o'clock, the guests pronouncing the evening the greatest success.

The proceeds from this dance and succeeding ones will be devoted to the building of the gymnasium for the children, which it is hoped will be started very early in the new year.

In response to many inquiries from its guests, the club announces that the next annual dance will be held on St. Valentine's Day.

EAST CASSIAR AFFORDS RANGE FOR LIVESTOCK

Little-Known Area in Northern B.C. Is Visited by Party Headed by Mr. W. B. George

ABUNDANCE OF NATIVE GAME

The eastern section of the Cassiar district is seldom traveled by white people, as was demonstrated when Mr. W. B. George, the well-known mining operator who is registered at the Dominion Hotel, traveled a vast area of country in the four months between March and July 3, with one white companion, Mr. P. M. Monkton, of Prince Rupert, and two Indians, from Telegraph Creek to the head waters of the Finlay River and back. They only saw three white men while away, one of whom possessed a radio, hundreds of miles away in the wilderness. After the return to Wrangell in July, Mr. George proceeded to Stewart, in which camp he has extensive interests, remaining until he came south with Mrs. George.

Mr. George's party traveled on foot, with a dog team carrying supplies. The object was to inspect certain mining properties, details of which Mr. George is not free to describe yet. They saw distinct traces of copper, gold and silver deposits. The route lay by way of the Iskut River, across the Klappan Mountains to the Klappan River watershed, then over another range to the Spuzzan River, and thence to the Finlay River, and back to the Stikine River down to Telegraph Creek again. Mr. George is impressed with the country as a great range area, with bunch grass growing freely, and capable of sustaining a great number of stock when transportation facilities are available. The temperature was cold, particularly in the month of April, when forty degrees below zero was registered. There was an abundance of game and fish and the party had fresh meat at all times. A number of caribou were seen, and some moose. The few Indians encountered were nomadic, traveling in small parties, and engaged in trapping and hunting. He found the timber light, and affording no serious difficulties to travel.

As illustrating the possibilities of the range country, Mr. George says that he saw a number of caribou used for pack purposes, which lived outside on what they could get—chiefly bunch grass—and pointed out that while snow lay in the valleys, the knolls were swept bare, giving ample food supply to the wild animals, which could be seen on the knolls, ranging in herds engaged in feeding, and only driven to shelter in the clumps of forest in the valleys when storms swept the higher levels.

CIVIL SERVANTS SELECT OFFICERS

Meeting Decides to Investigate Question on Temporary Employees

Officers elected for 1930 by the Amalgamated Civil Servants, Victoria branch, last evening were: President, Mr. S. A. Shrimpton, representing trade and commerce; Mr. Sidney Chilver, vice-president, representing department of public works; Mr. Walter Lorimer, auditor, representing department of national revenue; and Mr. Aubrey H. C. Jones, secretary-treasurer, also representing department of national revenue. Votes of thanks were tendered Mr. George Finn and retiring officer of the organization, Mr. Finn recently retired from the marine and fisheries department and was for some time secretary of the marine group of the Amalgamated Civil Servants.

At the annual election meeting an investigation was ordered to ascertain why Dominion Government telegraph lines did not come under the scope of the Civil Service Commission, as did operators in the same service. The question of Public Works Department employees was also considered, the meeting being apprised of the fact that some men had been for periods of twenty-three years on the staff but were still considered temporary employees. As such they were denied superannuation and annual increases.

It was also decided to investigate the case of Captain E. L. Jones, of Sandhead Lightship, Captain Jones was advised that as he was captain of one of His Majesty's Canadian vessels, he was not entitled to superannuation nor to regular increases in salary.

Twelve new members were enrolled in the organization before the meeting closed, and word was received that twenty-five more from the quarantine station planned to join as soon as possible. They will form a quarantine group.

Now that it's past, what did you do yesterday that's worth mentioning?—Right way.

WILY PILCHARD'S HABITS OUTLINED

Major George Nicholson Gives Theory Explaining 1928 Off-shore Fishing

"Pilchards are best known for their oil content and use in production of fertilizer. Little is known of their edibility," said Major George Nicholson, M.C., Clayoquot hotel proprietor, who is spending a short holiday at the Empress Hotel.

"Only two plants on the West Coast of Vancouver Island can pilchards. They are situated at Killarney, in Barkley Sound, and at Nanaimo. The major portion of the majority of cases packed are shipped from British Columbia to Southern European countries.

"Pilchard cannot be eaten fresh on account of the oil content, but when canned, a large portion of this is removed. Off the coast of California, where they are called sardines and are canned as such, sometimes under the brand of imported Norwegian fish," he said. "Under Federal law, one-half of the pilchard catch there must be canned and the other half used for production of oil and fertilizer. In this process the heads, tails and entrails are processed, while the flesh alone is canned."

"The best way to eat canned pilchards is to open the can, drain off the oil and place the contents on a platter with sliced tomatoes and lettuce. Prepared this way the fish is delicious, and is featured on Canadian naval ships. The Coast at midnight suppers," Major Nicholson said.

HABITS OF PILCHARD

"Now the Dominion Government is in the habits of pilchard. Dr. G. H. B. Torsell, who spent the summer upon the West Coast delving into their lives and food, and it is definitely known that the fish do not spawn off the coast of Vancouver Island.

"During the pilchard seasons of 1925, 1926 and 1927, about 80 per cent of the pilchard catch was in inside waters in the sounds, coves, inlets and bays. During 1928 and 1929 most of the fish were found between five and twenty-five miles off the coast, with the exception of a good run in Barkley Sound," he said.

"Even with many days of rough weather and slowed down to twenty-four hours each week when absolutely no fishing was done, the fish did not show up close to shore. It is interesting to note that herring for years continue to congregate close in.

"One theory of fishermen is that marine life is attracted to pilchards, feed on, form according to weather and temperature, and during the years that the fish were caught close to shore, the food was there. It is thought that the food at present is now far offshore, where the fish have been caught this year and the year before," the major concluded.

LARGE PROBLEM. FACES OFFICIAL

Salvation Army Canada West Finances Need Careful Nursing. Says Commissioner Hogard

The Salvation Army in Western Canada has quite a serious financial situation to face, owing to the large developments undertaken, and the necessity of facing the resulting obligations. Commissioner R. Hogard, territorial commander in Canada West, who paid his second visit here with Mrs. Hogard during the week-end, explained to The Colonist that after some months' investigation of conditions in the western empire, he thinks the Salvation Army has overbuilt its services in comparison with revenue, and while such development will doubtless come right as the country expands and business brings revenue, it will require careful administration for some time.

In that connection he pays tribute to the assistance of representative businessmen, who are giving the army the use of their advice on important organizations carried out under the army's flag. The hospitals for maternity cases in Winnipeg and Vancouver are in this category, and already steps have been taken to appoint business managers to give close supervision to the financial aspect of operation. Statistics which he gave showed that the number of patients at these hospitals was large, and showed a tendency to increase.

Speaking with many years of administrative experience behind him, Commissioner Hogard believes that prudence will enable the army to carry out its work unchecked, but caution will be requisite for a time.

Of the cable statement that General Higgins was applying to the British courts for a direction on the Bramwell Booth estate, Mr. Hogard said that it was important owing to the fact that large sums of trust funds were held for foreign missionary work. When it was recalled that the Salvation Army had 3,000 missionaries in the foreign field, the importance of the situation was apparent.

On Sunday afternoon Commissioner Hogard gave an address on Korea at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Hon. J. Hinchliffe presiding.

New Citadel May Be Placed On Fresh Site

Announcement was made last evening that a new site will probably be secured for the proposed Salvation Army Citadel, Mr. A. G. Robertson, market superintendent in the Colonist last week. The suggested site was mentioned on Comorant Street, near the Foresters' Hall. Negotiations are in progress for an exchange of property and it may result in a new site being selected.

During his visit to the city yesterday Commissioner R. Hogard, territorial commander for Canada West, met the architect and others interested. It was decided not to make an appeal until January owing to the number of funds now claiming public support.

If a new site should be selected there will be no change in the plan of building already described.

ESQUIMALT WILL REPAIR STREETS

Three Thoroughfares in District to Be Renovated—Council Meeting Last Night

As a result of the meeting of the Esquimalt Council held last night, several streets throughout the district will receive some necessary repairs at the hands of the engineer and his staff. It was the opinion of the Council that if two of the three streets brought up for discussion were renovated and put into shape that accidents would be less frequent.

The corner of Macaulay Street and Esquimalt Road was the subject of a lengthy debate. It was reported that a portion of the corner was dangerous to the motor traffic and if it was not improved immediately accidents may take place and the municipality would be blamed.

Councillor Smith moved that the engineer be recommended to bring in at the next meeting an estimate of putting the road into shape. The engineer was also asked to submit a report on the blasting of a dangerous rock on Admirals Road. Councillor Hadfield stated that if this rock was not removed as soon as possible it would continue to be a detriment to motor vehicles and an accident of a serious nature may occur.

Work amounting to $200 for the extension of Grafton Street was ordered done before the Council adjourned.

Fur for Nocturnal Chic

FEW seasons have permitted such a wide choice in the evening gown which will be smart. It is true that the evening frock as well as the daytime garment will make a bow to the natural waistline influence, but every formal gown will not have to stick out at the sides, in the bouffant manner, nor yet dip down in the back and rise in the front. The uneven hemline is still with us, but so subtly is it shown that it appears as an effect rather than a deliberate concession to fashion. The evening neckline is amazingly diverse. Many of the courtiers have stressed this particular feature so that frocks are built around it. Cherub's neck, for example, is a very extreme right is an example of this. Her slanting décolletage suggested a finishing touch, so the side bows, a smart note, sprang into being. They are repeated by a diamond-shaped inset of flesh colored tulle. Molded firmly about the hips, the skirt falls in a straight line until it meets the

About twenty guests were present at the Central Settlement Hall on Monday evening, when a very enjoyable social, organized by the Girls' Parish Guild, took place. Unfortunately the honorary president, Mrs. J. W. Flinton, and the president, Miss H. Marcus, were unavoidably prevented from being present. There were two stalls in the hall, a needlework stall in charge of the Mesdames Cunningham, while Misses Shirley Wilson and Alice Forward were kept busy at the candy stall. Mr. McMartin was successful in the guessing competition and won some beautiful embroidery. The hall decorated by a very pretty and effective, entirely of yellow and black, suitable to the season. Several of those present were in fancy dress. The prize winners being: Lady's first, Miss Campbell, in a fashionable costume; lady's second, Miss Lois Wilson, Spanish; gentlemen's first, Mr. G. Kelleher, Caesar Augustus; second, Mr. Donald Fraser, Scotch; Mr. Ken Mollett, comic. The prizes were presented by Mrs. N. W. Wilson, and the judges were Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. V. C. Best, and Madame Bertucci. Other costumes worthy of mention were: Miss M. Harris, Russian; Miss Denise Crofton, Chinaman; Miss Betty Kingsbury, sailor; Miss Shirley Wilson, kypsy; Miss A. Forward, farmer, etc. Eaton's orchestra supplied the music. By the entertainment, the guild raised about forty dollars.

Hallowe'en Party Held In Aid of Solarium

A delightful Hallowe'en party and shower in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium was held on Saturday evening in Lake Hill Community Hall under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Over 140 children in fancy dress and a large number of parents and friends were present and thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment provided. Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Lady Lake and Miss Cooke judged the costumes, and as the children paraded before them in the various characters of Brown clowns, Indians, ghosts, etc., found their task a difficult one. Prizes were presented by Mrs. J. D. Gordon to the following: Girls, five and under, Joy Deacon (pietrol); Joan Saul, rosebud; boys, Donald Land, ghost; girls, five to ten, Barbara Curtin, danger signals; Elsie Clark, court dress; Ellen Cross, blue girl; boys, Dwight Norwood, Indian; Albert Peg, Jumping Jack; girls, ten to fourteen, Irene MacLachlan, Buster Brown; Margaret Peddle, old-fashioned lady; boys, David Currie, clergyman; Maynard Lemon, prince; girls, fourteen and over, Zora Gill as Sis Hopkins; Peggy MacLachlan, Chinese; boys, James Booth, musician; Victor Peddle, clown; Hallowe'en costume, Edith Osborne, Jean Fuggle, Connie Patricia Fulton.

Immediately following the judging of costumes supper was served by members of the Institute under the convener'ship of Mrs. Cambray and Mrs. Akerman.

Later in the evening an excellent programme was given by the children. This had been arranged by Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Currie, with Mrs. Sherritt at the piano, and reflected great credit on these ladies. Dances were given by Lilian Toy, Grace Townsend, Phyllis Elliott, Thelma and James Booth, dialogues by Margaret Peddle, Barbara Curtin, Evelyn Cruickshanks, Margaret Peg, Reginald Porter and John Currie, also the "Wedding of the Painted Doll" and "Smiling Thru" by the entire cast, both of which were received with much applause. Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Harris took charge of donations and reported taking over $50 in cash and fifty-three donations of fruit, jams, etc., which will be forwarded to the Solarium.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Holman

Coats just now are remarkable for their opulence in many subtle ways. Generous attention to details, taking a flare at the new silhouette, at the same time entertaining the princess line, are all part of the programme. Although sleeves are often without fur there is no need for them to feel apurged as poor relatives, for they are handsomely trimmed with bands and inserts of the fabric itself. Two muffs are frequently used to offset the neglect, and luxurious fur collars receive attentive interest. The handsome coat sketched above is typical of this group. It is of brown velvet with a rich lynx shawl collar. The sleeves are set in one with a yoke-like V-shaped inset at the sides. Special attention is given the sleeves flaring at the wrists and the uneven hemline dipping at the sides.

McNIVEN-MILLER

A wedding of interest took place on Wednesday, October 30, in Moose Jaw, Sask., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, when their elder daughter, Lillian Grace, became the bride of Dr. Errol Lloyd McNiven, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McNiven, 1338 Carnegie Street, Victoria. Rev. J. A. MacKellan officiated, and the house was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Dr. J. M. Miller, brother of the bride, and Mr. James C. Miller, cousin of the bride, were ushers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely princess gown of cream transparent velvet with long tight-fitting sleeves. The skirt opened over cream pleated lace. Her long veil of tulle, edged with rose-point lace, was arranged in cap effect caught at the sides with clusters of orange blossoms and chin strap of pearls. Her bouquet was of shell-pink Ophelia roses with show-ers of lilies of the valley. Miss Dorothy Miller attended her sister as bridesmaid, attired in an orchid taffeta dress of uneven hemline, scalloped with transparent velvet and hat of orchid velvet with lace of contrasting shades. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. John Keay, cousin of the bride, supported the groom. Mrs. Gordon Paul sang "Because" while the register was being signed. Mr. Robert Forrest sang for the pleasure of the guests later in the evening. Mrs. Miller, mother of the bride, was attired in an ensemble of pastel green georgette and Spanish lace, and wore a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Donald McNiven, of Regina, wore a cream Spanish lace gown trimmed with blue panne velvet and hat of black velvet. A buffet luncheon was served. Those who assisted were Mrs. C. Hart, Mrs. Kennedy (Regina), and the Misses Rosie Cooper and Irene Thomson. The groom's gift to the bride was a white-gold pendant with a diamond setting, to the bridesmaid, a compact; to the best man, a fountain pen, and to the ushers, cuff links. The happy couple left by the evening train for Victoria, where they will make their home at 2440 Beach Drive.

Guests at the Beverley Hotel Apartments are Mr. J. McCoy, Mr. J. Boward, Mr. and Mrs. H. Martin, Vancouver; Mrs. and Miss D. Carson, Moose Jaw; Mrs. and Miss B. E. Townsend, Salt Lake City; Miss H. A. Middleton, Jordan River; Miss H. Anderson and Miss C. McMurry, Jasper.

Rhoda, A Red-Headed Girl

by Harry Mitchell Webster

CHAPTER II
Rhoda tried to tell herself she was glad she had snubbed Martin Forbes. She didn't want her affairs piled into and he had deserved exactly the treatment he got. She enjoyed, after a fashion, the consciousness of his glaring at her from the edge of the dance floor, but when she perceived that he was no longer there and came to the conclusion that he'd really abandoned her, she found suddenly that she was tired of the Alhambra and wanted to go home. And, although she maintained that Martin's suspicions of Max Lewis were wild nonsense, she was rather glad that Leander Higgins offered to take her home.

Their trip, mostly by trolley, was without incident. Of course, it would be! Martin had made up the whole thing out of his own head. She was as friendly as she knew how to be to Leander all the way to the studio door, but at that point she said good night to him firmly. It had been only by the exercising of a good deal of resolution that she'd kept her mind on him up to that point. And until Babe came home she wanted to be let alone.

She hadn't yet made up her mind what she'd say to Babe, whether she'd tell her anything of what had happened tonight, or even whether she'd ask her any questions. She took Babe absolutely for granted as a loyal friend and confided her possession of a fund of shrewd wisdom. But once started, could Babe be stopped? The thing her mechanism conspicuously lacked was brakes. She couldn't thinkably be told the whole story, and it would probably be safer to tell her none of it; to be in bed and sound asleep when Babe got home. And yet she would like to know whether Martin had said anything to her about his discoveries.

As she glanced around the studio after shutting the door on Leander Higgins, her eye fell on tonight's News, scattered about the floor, as her roommate had left it. Was that advertisement really in the paper, or had Martin Forbes made that up, too? No, there it was in the personal column, just as he'd said: "Rhoda McFarland will learn something to her advantage."

She dropped into Babe's chair and the section of the paper slid from her hand back to the floor. It had given her a surprising shock to see her discarded name in print like that. It brought things back that she'd thought she was done with forever; some things that she hadn't thought about in years. Their yard at home, with the venerable live oak in the middle of it, in whose branches she and her three inseparable friends used to scramble about like young monkeys; the three A's they used to call them because their names all began that way—Ann, and Alice, and Amy. And she had used to wish passionately that her name began with an A, too. They were all in the same grade; seventh it was, when her father told her one morning that she was not to go to school any more for the present. For the present! She's never gone to school again; not since that day. And Amy, Alice and Ann faded out of the picture. They didn't come to play in her yard any more.

And she had understood that it was because of something that was spoken of, when it was mentioned at all, as the trial, her father's trial—Professor Walter Whitehouse McFarland. She'd had a glimpse of his name once in head lines. Her father had stopped being a professor at the same time, and for a while—though whether it was days or weeks she couldn't remember—they'd made a sort of pretense of having school at home with him for teacher. Interrupted, harassed days those were, with people coming to see him and being sometimes told that he was out, even when she knew he wasn't.

There were a few days toward the end, just before they left California for good, when he had been away from home all the time and she had known, somehow, that the trial was going on.

Also she had known before she saw him on her return, though again the source of her knowledge eluded her memory, that the outcome of it had been favorable to him, that he had "got off." She must be right about that since she still so vividly remembered her disappointment and perplexity, when she saw him; that he had been, if possible, whiter and more bitterly silent than ever.

She hoped he would tell her what the trial had been about. He had never, even in after years, told her that. Only once, that she knew of, and his spirit flashed up.

This had happened when her Uncle William—he must have been her dead mother's brother; he couldn't have been her father—had come to see them, after the trial and before they started east. She couldn't remember ever having seen him before, but she did remember the falsely genial smile with which he had reproached her for having forgotten him.

He had been an ogre to her ever since, and even now, when she told herself that he probably had not been as tall as the ceiling, even as the living-room ceiling of the bungalow, and that her flashing teeth couldn't have been unnatural, ally luminous, she still clung with a shudder to her childish recollections of him.

Anyhow, her father had not been afraid of him. He'd sent her from the room on Uncle William's saying that her father could probably guess what he'd come to see him about. She'd obediently gone, but only as far as her bedroom, and the boom of the ogre's voice had come through the thin walls all too clearly. He'd come to try to make her father give her away, forever, to him. He'd spoken of her, terrifyingly, as "the child." But her father, though quiet and conciliatory at first, had finally defied her uncle.

After her uncle had gone, her father asked whether she had heard any of their talk. She told him she had not.

She hadn't understood much of it at the time, beyond her uncle's assertion that her father had disgraced himself. Her father, of course, hadn't been sent to prison. He had "got off." But why, if he hadn't done anything wrong, hadn't he gone back to the college and to school, and Ann and Alice and Amy come to play with her again? Probably because people had thought he'd done it anyhow.

Their departure from the little university town out in California had seemed like running away to her, and she was sure, to her father, also. She could have got the idea from no one but him, and it must have been pretty strong to have quenched the pleasurable excitement she'd otherwise felt over her first long ride on the train.

They'd had a compartment and her father, she remembered, had hardly left it. She'd been warned not to talk to people and especially not to answer questions.

There was one incident she remembered very clearly. Her father's voice had faded and she'd looked up to see if he'd fallen asleep. He wasn't asleep, but staring out over the desert with such a look of pain in his face that she'd burst into tears.

He'd comforted her and had said the only thing that he'd ever said in direct reference to the catastrophe: "I've got you," he told her, "and they can't take you away from me. And I'm going to see to it that you shan't be the loser by this thing that's happened to me. In the long run, it may be just as well for you that it did happen."

At that time she'd no idea what he'd meant by that. But the events of the later years made it clear. He'd had a scheme for making her rich. A scheme that he'd never brought off, to be sure, but one that, down to the very night of his death, he'd never let her hope about. She couldn't doubt now that he had undertaken it for her. Nothing that he'd ever said or done made it seem that he cared anything about wealth, except for the secure happy life that it would bring her.

Yet, as it had worked out, it was that hope of his, always on the point of coming true, that had been the cause of most of her unhappiness during the four long years they had lived in that Chicago hotel. She didn't know that she regretted them now. That made a pretty hard sort of problem to work out. Most people, certainly, would say it was a horrible way for a child to be brought up.

The hotel itself was all right, one of the less pretentious ones of the residential type. Her first impression of it, especially after the rather dingy boarding house where they'd lived for the first little while upon their arrival in Chicago, had been one of unbridled and incredible luxury: walls and pillars down to the floor, marble and polished brass, stairs that she assumed to be marble, swift elevators run by boys in maroon livery, a head waiter in a perpetual dress suit.

Their own rooms up on the tenth floor, furnished in imitation black walnut and taupe upholstery, especially perhaps the floor lamp and its heavy silk shade, had carried out the idea that they'd come to live in a palace. The kitchenette, with its electric stove, had seemed a marvelous toy to her, and their white tile bathroom, with its modern plumbing and its never-failing

The King Returns To Hold Meeting Of Privy Council

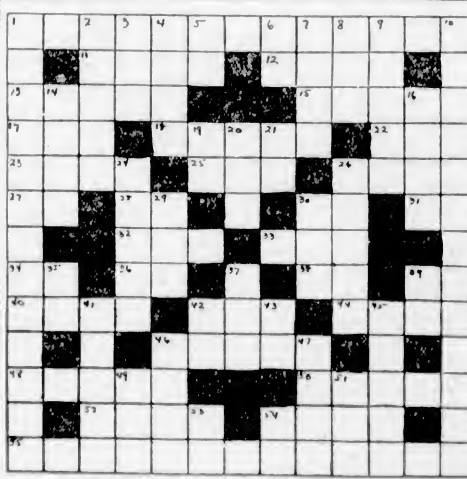

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 4.—After nearly three months' residence at Sandringham House, his favorite country home, King George left here today by special train for a brief sojourn at Buckingham Palace.

Queen Mary and Princess Elizabeth accompanied him. It was not expected His Majesty would remain more than ten days in London, his plans calling for return here after holding a Privy Council and receiving Premier MacDonald, and probably some of his other ministers at the palace.

The King appeared in good health and in a happy mood.

TERMS OF NEW HIGHWAY ROUTE ARE ANNOUNCED

Stewart, Minister of the Interior in the Federal Government, who authorized the announcement of the conclusion of negotiations.

This road, which will be constructed by sections covering a term of a few years, is one that will add materially to the scenic attractions for tourists to British Columbia, as well as facilitating the opening up of a mining area which, up to the present time has been difficult to exploit.

The road is along a historic section of the province. It is associated with the early trading of the Hudson's Bay Company in the West and for years was traveled by these traders and explorers.

Under the arrangements entered into between the two Governments, the Dominion will take over the eastern section of the Columbia River route from a point to which construction has already been carried out ten miles north of Golden.

The Federal department will construct the road from there to Canoe River, right at the big bend in the Columbia, which is approximately ninety miles from the end of the present road.

Of this route, fifty-three miles have already been surveyed, while another thirty-seven miles remain to be surveyed. Work is to be carried on with expedition.

CONNECT AT CANOE RIVER

The Provincial Department of Public Works, under the arrangements entered into by Mr. Loughheed with the Federal authorities, will connect up with this Dominion section of the road at Canoe River by completing the highway from Revelstoke to that point. Already there are thirty miles of the road north of Revelstoke on the western section of the Columbia, which has been constructed in a rough way, but of this only thirty miles have been graded, making it easy of travel.

Some seventy miles remain to be completed from the end of the thirty-mile section, of this thirty miles have been surveyed, while forty miles remain to be done.

The C.P.R. railway line from Revelstoke to Golden completes the third side of a triangle, which embraces the two sections of the Columbia River route along which the two Governments undertake to construct a highway.

There had been under consideration years past the project of connecting a road along this route roughly parallel with the C.P.R. In the construction of this the character of the country to be traveled offered a most serious, if not insurmountable difficulty. The road, should it have been constructed along this line, would have been open to travel only for a limited time each year. It would, moreover, have been a most difficult work to keep in shape.

Under the negotiations carried out with the Dominion authorities by the former Government respecting this route, the hope was entertained that the Dominion would bear the cost of construction through the Glacier Park, which falls within the jurisdiction of the Dominion authorities.

FOR GENERAL TRAFFIC

The route adopted is one that will lend itself to general traffic and will form a through highway connecting up Alberta with the Pacific Coast. It is hoped that it will mean the diversion of a great deal of the tourist traffic from the United and Canada which centred about Banff and which was cut off for the most part from coming on to the Coast, except by going south into the United States again or transferring their automobiles by rail.

The Provincial Government, under the conditions of the agreement entered into, undertakes to complete its part of the road by the end of 1932. The Dominion Government undertakes to begin at once and will carry it to completion with all expedition. Any bridges necessary in connection with any river crossings at the big bend will be constructed by the Federal authorities.

Mr. Loughheed feels that under the arrangements that have been entered into, there is assured to the whole of the Province of British Columbia a decided impetus to travel. Within a few years, the Big Bend Road having been completed, there will be afforded the opportunity for through traffic from Alberta over this road to Vancouver and Victoria and other points on the Pacific Coast.

From this road there will be the opportunity afforded through the other highways that are constructed or being completed in not only the southern part of the province, but also Eastern and Central British Columbia, the means to connect up with a large part of British Columbia.

The Dominion Government has anticipated the cost of its part of the work along the eastern wing of the Columbia at $850,000.

The Federal authorities have been carrying out for some years past a policy of connecting up the different national parks by means of highways, which are now being taken up by it along the Columbia has to do with the connecting up of the Rocky Mountain Park, in which Banff is situated, with Jasper Park in the north.

From Canoe River there remains only about eighty miles of route to connect up with Jasper.

This route would be along historic ground. It would constitute the old overland route followed by the fur traders from Jasper to the coast.

Under the present conditions, the Provincial Government should be compulsory. Alderman Woodward recorded his vote in the negative, holding that every individual should have the right to have his own doctor.

ON HISTORIC GROUND

Canoe River, where the Dominion and the Province meet in their respective highway plans, is the spot where in 1810 David Thompson spent the winter fighting starvation until the Columbia opened in the Spring and he made his way by canoe to the Province of the Willamette to the mouth of the Columbia River.

Boat Encampment Ferry near by is another point which is associated, as the name indicates, with the trading days when the Columbia was made to do service for the Hudson's Bay Company in carrying on navigation of what was then a great wilderness.

Commencing very shortly after take-off, the Minister of Public Works, Mr. Loughheed has been working unceasingly in the effort to bring about an arrangement under which the Dominion would lend decided assistance to the Province in carrying through of the undertaking. He found the Dominion representatives anxious to aid in the work of the task in hand has been made.

Man Found on Street Still Unconscious

With the cause of his condition still a mystery, Edwin Cooper, 875 Swan Street, was still unconscious in the Jubilee Hospital at an early hour this morning.

Cooper was picked up on Government Street, near Mill Street, on Sunday evening, suffering from a deep wound in the left side of his head.

The police were notified about 6 o'clock and the patrol, with Constables McPherson and Accrington, responded to the call.

When Dr. J. W. Lennox attended him, he was found to have a wound in the left side of his head, which he may possibly have fallen from a bicycle, found near the scene.

Flip Turns Tail

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Ignorance doth mother fear; Knowledge will not let it near.

—Old Mother Nature.

Flip the Terrier enjoys nothing more than going afield with his master, Farmer Brown's Boy. Always he gets very much excited when he sees Farmer Brown's Boy preparing to take a walk. Sometimes he is left behind and then he is broken-hearted. But he has learned that if he wants to go, he must mind. If his master tells him to stay at his heel, he must be satisfied to trot along with his nose right at Farmer Brown's Boy's heels. If his master tells him he can go ahead, he knows that he must be ready to return at his master's command. Much of the time he has to keep at his master's heels, because when Farmer Brown's Boy goes in the Green Forest he wants to see the little people who live there, and a dog racing ahead would frighten them.

But not all the frightening is done by Flip. He never will forget the fright he got over in the Green Forest one of the first times he went to walk there with Farmer Brown's Boy. He was trotting along right at his master's heels. He was all aquiver with excitement. How he did want to run and poke his nose into holes and peek behind trees and work his way through thickets. But his master said "No!" and Flip knew there was nothing for it but to obey.

They were going along a crooked little path where it led between some white birch trees and past a bramble tangle. Just as they were passing this bramble tangle there was a terrible noise. It was so wholly unexpected and it was so very loud and so very close that before he could stop himself, Flip yelped right out. At the same time something when whirling away through the trees. Flip didn't see what it was. Flip was all streble when he looked up in the laughing face of his master.

"What's the matter, Flip?" asked Farmer Brown's Boy with a laugh. "Did Thunder frighten you? You are not the first one who has frightened. You'll get used to it after he has done that two or three times."

Flip looked up in his master's face and wagged his stubbed tail just as if he knew what his master had been saying, which he didn't at all. Farmer Brown's Boy knew this. He knew that the little dog was still wondering what it was all about.

"Flip, you'll see for him a little later," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "That was Thunder the Grouse. But you can't understand what I'm telling you, so I shall have to show him to you. We ought to find him, or Mrs. Grouse, without much trouble, for no hunting is allowed in this part of the Green Forest, and Mrs. Grouse is wise enough to know that they are safe here and stay here. Come along!"

Farmer Brown's Boy led the way and Flip followed. You would have laughed to see how close he kept to Farmer Brown's Boy's heels. His nose almost touched them most of the time. Yes, sir, it did so. And though he tried not to shake, he did shake once in a while. You see, that fright had quite upset him and he didn't know when to expect something more like it. He wasn't quite so sure now, that he liked the Green Forest as well as he had thought he did. But he comforted himself with the thought that his master wasn't afraid, and so there couldn't be any real reason for him to be afraid.

"Anyway, I won't let my master know I'm afraid," said Flip to himself. "But I'll keep right close to him. Yes, sir, I'll keep right close to him. I don't know what that thing was that went off back there, but I don't like things that go off that way. That was as bad as one of those things that go off on Halloween."

Of course, Flip meant firecrackers. (Copyright, 1929, T. W. Burgess.)

STUDENT GIVES VIEW OF EUROPE

Mrs. Laura Jamieson, Fresh From Conferences in Geneva and Czechoslovakia, Speaks Here

A remarkably clever review of conditions in Europe, industrial, economic and social, was given by Mrs. Laura Jamieson, judge of the juvenile court at Burnaby, B. C., in her address at Victoria College last evening under the auspices of the University Women's Club. Mrs. Jamieson, who was introduced by Miss Cann, was in Prague last Summer as a delegate of the Canadian section of women in the International League of Peace. In Geneva she attended not only the conference of Federated University Women's Clubs and of the World Federation of Education Associations, but also some of the special League of Nations lectures on international affairs. A sketch of the tenor of her discussions was given to the audience, together with some of her more general impressions of the countries through which she passed and their people.

Mrs. Jamieson's deductions, framed from the standpoint of an ardent advocate of the peace movement, added considerably to the interest of her very fine address. It made her see in the Balkan school for waifs and cripples, a school which is perpetuating at their best in a highly industrialized course the old arts and handicrafts of Czechoslovakia, one of the artistic links which would help to establish a bond with other people. It also made her see in the clashes between political and economic groups in the individual countries a fresh menace to peace, a new problem which the League of Nations might in course of time find itself compelled to consider. In this last connection she cited the clashes between the Fascists and Socialists of Austria. There were two armed groups in the same country bitterly opposed to each other. With such conditions even harmony between the nations would not mean peace. This and the problem arising out of the clashes between groups holding different economic views furnished the International League for Peace with some fresh material for consideration.

"The problem of economic theories is one of the greatest problems we have today," she told her audience. But the nations were by no means agreed as to the method of treating such discussions. At Hyde Park, London, she had gone to hear some of the "soapbox" orators, and was evidently convinced of Britain's wisdom in letting her malcontents blow off steam in the open air. That was the way it was done in England, and nowadays there was very little Communism heard of there. But she found the opposite principle in practice on her return to Canada. On arrival in Toronto she found everyone talking of a Communist meeting which had taken place there the week before, when the police had interfered with the proceedings. Communism the next day, an authority had stated, had gained five hundred new members. Which was the better way?

TOLERANCE

In the opening part of her address Mrs. Jamieson described the Dalcroze school of eurythmics, which she had visited at Geneva. Some system of eurythmics now played a part in the education of children almost all over the world, replacing the old Swedish drill. She spoke of the medieval charm of the old part of Geneva, although this was quite distinct from the part which housed the home of the League of Nations. Her impressions from the week's lectures which she attended there was that at least there had come into existence the first piece of machinery to do away with war and bring about peace. At the teachers' organizations of the world were represented in the World Federation of Education Associations. Two of the most important conclusions, to her mind, emanating from this conference were that the best methods of inculcating peace was through education, largely by means of teaching neighbors. The greatest force to bring about peace would be the fostering of the spirit of tolerance, of government by tolerant discussion, but while recognizing this it had to be recognized also that what suited the British temperament did not suit the temperament of some of these other European states, where, in most cases, the women were not yet emancipated, and the people as a whole had not yet learned how to work in groups.

The Canadian delegates had discussed among themselves how they could help. One of their conclusions was that Canada's happier estate was more a matter of happier conditions than any inherent superiority in her people. Europe, with vast and discontented minorities, having for centuries lived in a constant upheaval of emotions such as this country had not experienced. A second conclusion was that Canada should demonstrate that she had signed the Kellogg pact in good faith, by taking a lead in disarmament. In recent years Canada, in proportion to her population, had about twelve times more Cadets in training than Great Britain. Last year this country had spent about $20,000,000 in military training, about $500,000 of this was directed to the training of Cadets. To show the sincerity of her intentions in signing the pact, Canada should insist that the Department of National Defence confine itself to the military training of men, and should not interfere with the training of children in the schools. The Federation of Teachers had adopted this stand.

REROUTING OF OAK BAY LINE DECIDED

B.C. Electric Objects to Blue Line Bus Route, Which Will Be Changed by By-Law

CITY'S AGREEMENT CALLED IN QUESTION

At a meeting of the City Council last night, a letter from the B.C. Electric Railway Company was considered drawing attention to the bus service now being operated on Fort Street and Oak Bay Avenue.

The letter pointed out that inasmuch as this service was in direct competition with the street cars on Fort Street, it was at variance with the agreement now existing between the city and the company.

The city solicitor gave it as his opinion that the railway company had been held between the interested parties at which an alternative route was discussed and favorably considered—along Douglas Street, Johnson Street, thence to Blanshard Street to Yates Street, Fort Street and to Oak Bay; returning to the city by way of Fort Street. Yates Street and Douglas Street, as suggested by the Oak Bay Council after negotiations with the operators.

The matter was discussed at last night's council meeting, received favorable consideration and a by-law to give effect to it will be drafted, under provisions of the Victoria City Act, 1920.

MR. WILLIAM IVENS, member of the Manitoba Legislature who was elected as President of a new Western Labor Party which will confine its efforts to the four Western Provinces and Northern Ontario.

Adjournment Is Given Inquest Jury at Duncan

DUNCAN, Nov. 4.—After deliberating for more than two hours today into the cause of the death of Mr. A. F. D. Milledge, Somers, killed on October 31, the jury, under Dr. H. P. Swan, returned at 11:05 a.m. and asked for a postponement until November 14 to allow the Provincial Police to secure two important witnesses.

The witnesses to be procured by the police are the men who drove the Buick car on the night when Mr. Milledge was fatally injured when his horse was struck by another automobile on Canada Avenue, and the person who assisted R. J. Milledge in taking the horse to the hospital.

Inspector T. W. S. Parsons and Staff Sergeant Robert Owens, of the provincial police, Victoria, attended the inquest. The Inspector felt confident that the police would be able to procure the witnesses needed for the adjournment.

PEACE RIVER RESOURCES TO PAY FOR P.G.E.

This would tap the coal deposits, which he had heard described by Mr. W. R. Wilson, of the Crown North Pass Railway, as a character not found elsewhere in North America. It was of a character that it would be capable of being used in smelting without the need of coking.

The minister told of a large body of iron that existed near this coal, which produced a situation that, with the proving up of the amount of iron as being of a commercial extent, would be of great value to the country.

Mr. Burden said that the resources of the country were such that he had no doubt that in a few years it would take the problem of the P.G.E. off the shoulders of the people of the province.

In passing the bill to the vision of Sir Richard McBride, who had seen the benefits to be derived in the construction of a railway from the coal deposits, to the length of the province. The rich mineral territory along the route of such a road, he said, would amply justify such a road in time.

A little warning was sounded by the Minister of Lands with respect to the rush of settlers into the Peace River block and beyond it, there was also a lot of valuable agricultural land along the Peace River.

In this connection, he pointed out that in addition to the great area of rich land in the Peace River block and beyond it, there was also a lot of valuable agricultural land along the Peace River.

The suggestion of connection to Stewart to tap the country, Mr. Burden did not see at the present time much chance of any connection, as the country was so far from the coast.

That road was proposed to build, for the present at least, into the more westerly part of the North, where there was a rich area of iron in the line of mineral production.

He would like to see the P.G.E. continued to the Peace before the other line was constructed in there. A little warning was sounded by the Minister of Lands with respect to the rush of settlers into the Peace River block and beyond it, there was also a lot of valuable agricultural land along the Peace River.

The richness of the Peace, where for years there had been no absolute failure of the crops, was instanced. There were cases where no rain had fallen from the time the grain was sown until it was reaped, and yet eighteen bushels to the acre had been cut.

Mr. Burden was thanked by the meeting for his attendance. The thanks of the association was also extended to Mrs. Burden, who attended with her husband, and had a seat on the platform.

Following the meeting refreshments were served. Mrs. Gillis, the president, occupied the chair, and following the address a number of questions were asked by the minister about the country, to which he replied, giving the fullest information.

Reporters Sent To Prison for Court Offence
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Three reporters, released on bail last week after being sentenced to forty-five days for contempt of court, today voluntarily re-entered prison to begin serving their sentences. The men, Gorman M. Hendricks, Linton Burckett and John E. Nevin, Jr., all employees of The Washington Times, decided to go back to jail after their attorney had informed them it was almost a certainty that their sentences would be confirmed by the Court of Appeals. They then requested Justice Silldons, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court to dismiss the habeas corpus proceedings and remand them to prison. The trio were sentenced after they had refused to give the grand jury names and addresses of persons from whom they claimed to have purchased liquor for the purpose of gathering material for a crime condition survey of Washington.

PEACE CAMPAIGN MAKES HEADWAY

Victoria Local Council of Women Hears From Visit of Labor Regime in England

An address by Mrs. Laura Jamieson, of Vancouver, on the peace movement as she observed it during her visit to Europe during the Summer, gave special interest to the meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon. Other business of the meeting was occupied with more or less routine matters, including Mrs. Llewellyn Thomas' report on the campaign for British films, in the course of which she asked the members of the council to attend the British Gaumont series which is to begin at the Playhouse Theatre on November 11, the report of the treasurer, Mrs. C. R. Little, concerning progress with the rummage sale to be held at 646 Cormorant street, November 16, the report of the chairman, Miss Margaret Crease, of the campaign now in progress on behalf of the Institute for the Blind, Miss Bowron was present and was asked to tell the council at its meeting on Monday, November 13, something about her observations and experiences in connection with her work for the Department of Education. An invitation to be sent to Mrs. Ada Tonkin to address the annual meeting of the council in February on the question of women police.

The plans of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and the Labor Government in power in England had meant a definite step in the peace movement, but in England and through Europe, Mrs. Jamieson stated in the course of her interesting talk. In September at the meeting of the committee of the League of Nations the Prime Minister had announced Great Britain's willingness to sign the optional clause, and the moment this announcement was given, twelve other major signatories signed. As these had been the first signatories since the original twenty-six, the Prime Minister had been quite ready for several years to accept arbitration, and as soon as Great Britain signed Canada followed suit.

"The factor of public opinion, plus courageous leadership is a very important one in international relations," said the speaker. Great Britain's Prime Minister had made a study of war and peace, and stood up to his convictions with the result that he was able today to say to the other nations, "If you are ready to follow we will give a lead." Great Britain had come back to her traditional position of leadership in foreign affairs. The Prime Minister's subsequent visit to the United States had further paved the way for the Anglo-American relations. Now that the two countries had come to a tentative agreement on the question of naval disarmament, the great conflict forward with confidence to the next naval conference in January.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—"I don't know anything about it," declared Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, this evening, when asked again in connection with the newspaper report that declared Mr. Dunning might be asked to take over control of the Wheat Pool's operations. Mr. Dunning had observed the newspaper report but had no comment to make on it.

Lecture on Garibaldi
Mrs. Phyllis Munday, of Vancouver, will give a lecture on Garibaldi in Amphion Hall on "Garibaldi Park." The lecture will be illustrated with one hundred colored slides, of special interest to mountaineers in that the lecturer will show in detail the trail to Garibaldi Peak, from Squamish, and method of scaling it. It will be given by Mr. George Guy will sing, and special numbers will be thrown on the screen for community singing. The lecture will commence at 8 o'clock and is being given under the auspices of the Royal Society of St. George.

And then he married the coast-guard's daughter so they could do lighthouse keeping.

U.S. Government Given Award for Seven Millions
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—The Circuit Court of Appeal today awarded the Federal Government judgment for $7,538,432.08 against the Skinner & Eddy Corporation, Seattle, shipbuilders. Both parties to the suit had appealed from the judgment of the United States District Court at Seattle.
The corporation at the close of the war held contracts for the construction of twenty-five ships on a cost plus basis, totaling approximately $10,000,000. The contract was canceled with the signing of the Armistice, and the corporation refused to accept the U.S. Shipping Board's award of $2,616,992 as compensation for loss of the contract. The Government promptly sued.

Salmon Packing On Puget Sound Will End Today
BELLINGHAM, Nov. 4.—The salmon packing season on Puget Sound will end tomorrow, the last legal fishing day. Packers say the season has been fair, but for several weeks the catch has been light, with chums and cohorts the principal take recently. Packers have been operating only two days a week.

Dad: "Oh, I suppose it was to give him a chance to say something first."

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL
Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LOCAL ICEMEN HOLD FIRST WORKOUT OF SEASON

Thrills Galore Are Promised at Annual Climb at Mt. Douglas

Victoria Motorcycle Club Will Stage Big Event on Thanksgiving Day, Commencing at 2 o'clock—Thirteen Riders to Compete

Motorcycle engines will roar as they swirl by carrying their riders to a new hill climb record, women will shriek and scream, and even men will hold their breath and marvel at the riding, as members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club stage their annual hill-climbing contest at Mount Douglas, on Thanksgiving Day, November 11, commencing at 2 o'clock.

With a goodly number of entries in every class and a total of thirteen to the eighty cubic inch event, for the Paul Girardau Perpetual Challenge Cup, there promises to be an afternoon of thrills for the hundreds who attend this annual event. In all fifteen riders will compete with some twenty machines being in action.

They are all stock machines as used in the ordinary course of travel, with the rider's ability to tune, gear and ride his machine being the factors that carry him to victory.

The first event, one for machines under forty-five cubic inches, will start at 2 o'clock, now held by Jack Lake, another experienced hill climber, having ridden in every Victoria club, will follow on his Harley-Davidson single cylinder. Dick Shanks will pilot another Harley single, while Jimmie Norrington will endeavor to guide his Indian Scout to the highest mark. These small motors do not produce the thrills that the larger ones do, the competition in this event should make it interesting.

This year the forty-five cubic inch class will precede the seventy-four, to give the forty-fives a chance to set a new hill record, now held by G. Reece with his Indian Chief 74. In this event the new Harley 45 will be seen in action, ridden by Reg Shanks. He will have to ride hard to stay off the Indian camp, who are out to win this event, with Harold Engelson, John Norrington, Bob Shanks and Bill Dillabough, who this year has chosen a 45 Scout to carry him up. This event should have the crowd on its feet and provide some very spectacular riding.

OLD-TIMERS TO RIDE
When the starter calls the riders for the seventy-four event to the line some old-timers, both in riders and machines, will be seen. These are Reece, present holder of the hill record, who will be with his Indian Chief, Bob Shanks with an old Chief that has been three times the win column; Reg Williams, president of the club, will ride the Harley that made the best showing for Harley's in the past year, while Monty Lock, Able West, George Evans and Reg Shanks, with 1930 Harley's, will complete the starters.

The ambition of every rider in this year's climb will be to win the eighty-cubic-inch event, for the winner will be the first to have his name engraved on the beautiful, Paul Girardau Challenge Trophy, which has been put up by the club for competition in memory of Paul Girardau, who was killed in an accident this summer. Paul was the club secretary, and was a great hill climber enthusiast. Every type of machine will be used in this event, from the four-cylindered Indian, two-cam Harley, regular 74 Harley and Indian, and the small but fast Indian 45 Scouts. Last year two Scouts made highest marks in this event, only six inches separating them. The terrific speed reached by these small machines carrying them through the loose hill surface better than the larger motors. Nearly every rider has entered in this class, and although it is expected an experienced rider will win, some of the new riders have so much power and riding ability the issue will be in doubt until the last.

SPECIAL FEATURES
In case of trouble with any of the machines or equipment the club has arranged to have some feature rides to amuse the crowd. It is said that a daring lady rider will make an attempt to ride a roaring machine up a steep grade, while a machine is being prepared to have so much power that it will turn over backwards when its rider turns on the horsepower. These features alone will be an entertainment in themselves. The Vancouver Island Stage Lines are operating a special bus service to and from the hill, and it looks as if the attendance record will also be broken.

The climb will start at 2 o'clock, rain or shine. Free programmes will be distributed and a collection taken in aid of club funds.

The prizes for the event, all cups suitably engraved, are on display in window, at the corner of Douglas and view Streets.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO BRING TRIGO TO U.S.

Agua Caliente Interests Cable Invitation to B. Barnett, Owner of English Derby Winner

MANY HORSES TO RACE IN SOUTH
AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Nov. 4.—Trigo, winner of the great English Derby at Epsom, will be seen in action at the 140,000 Agua Caliente race track, March 23, at the new plant of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club to be opened every year for eight or more days of racing. The request of Baron Long, California millionaire breeder and sportsman, Caliente, James N. Crofton, general manager, cabled a formal invitation to B. Barnett, owner of Trigo, to appear in the English Derby winner across the water for the great winter classic—the world's richest race.

Already preliminary work has been accomplished in the plan to have Trigo run in the Agua Caliente Handicap. Long has just returned from a European trip and a visit to all of the principal race courses in the United States and Canada. In England Long conferred with owner Barnett and reports that the latter is quite likely to favorably consider the invitation which Crofton will cable. Trigo's invasion could take rank with other international turf episodes such as the coming of Papyrus and Epiphany to the United States, the trip made to England by Reginald and the present invasion of foreign race courses by Mike Hall, one of America's champions.

MANY STABLES TO RACE
Long brings from the Eastern winter racing here will give the greatest array of big stables, state and handicap horses and prominent trainers. In Eastern Canada, New York and Chicago he found practically all of the big stables planning to ship to Agua Caliente, owning plant, continuous racing for eighty-one days or more, rich stakes and handicaps, salubrious climate, the magnificent hotel and casino with its old-world attractions and freedom, golf and other amusements combine to make a magnet of irresistible charm.

Long declares that among the more prominent owners will be Harry Payne Whitney, the Seagram Brothers, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, W. R. Cow, Clifford Cochran, the La Mar Stable, which has Mispot, "Bath House" John Coughlin, Wilshire Stable, owned by Chaffee Earl, and racing Naishapur and Jim Dandy; Bartelslein and Una with Golden Prince as the star; Harrod Brothers; Northway Stable, Nevada Stock Farm, and many others of this stamp.

FRANK PATRICK NAMED HEAD OF HOCKEY AGAIN

Vancouver Founder of Coast League Re-elected President at Annual Meeting of Loop

MINOR CHANGES IN RULES ARE MADE

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4.—Frank Patrick was re-elected president of the Pacific Coast Hockey League at the second annual meeting held in Vancouver this morning.

R. P. Rowe, of Portland, was named vice-president, and Hugh Caldwell, of Seattle, secretary. Lloyd Turner, formerly of Calgary but now manager of the Seattle team, represented that city with Nate Duxman. Stan Patrick represented the interests of the Victoria club.

Bobby Rowe, Portland, was not in attendance, but he wired stating that financial difficulties had been adjusted and that the Rose City would again be a starter.

Part of the meeting was taken up in a discussion of the playing rules, but no drastic changes were made. The home team will be allowed to strip eleven men instead of ten in order that the home patrons may have the opportunity of seeing the "extra" in action. It was argued, however, that the eleventh man would then be given more opportunity to develop.

A two-minute penalty is to be given goalkeepers who deliberately delay the game by holding the puck longer than the three seconds the rule calls for. Before his penalty, however, he will receive two warnings.

The rule which calls for a penalty shot for the eighth penalty was eliminated. It was scarcely used last year. The remainder of the penalty shot rule remains.

TO STAGE PLAY-OFFS AGAIN
Play-offs will be the same with the first club getting the bye, and second and third clubs playing off for the winner to meet the league leaders for the league championship.

It is altogether likely that one or two N.H.L. clubs will again be invited to meet the Coast champions in post-season play next March. The plan last year worked out profitably.

"I look forward to another successful year in Coast hockey," said Mr. Patrick. "I think the league will be better balanced and Seattle Eskimos look particularly strong at this juncture."

"Victoria Cubs will be strengthened and the appointment of 'Jocko' Anderson, an experienced player, appears to have met with general commendation around the circuit."

Portland will have most of last year's troupe with additional strength that Rowe has been recruiting.

"Vancouver Lions will, of course, be without the sterling services of Art Somers, but with all of the rest of last season's players on hand, I look for one or two of these youngsters to come through sensationally and the club should be able to hold its own with the best opposition presented."

Three Teams Join New Hockey League
TORONTO, Nov. 4.—At a meeting held here Saturday, representatives from a number of Eastern Ontario cities decided to enter teams in a new professional hockey league to be known as the Canadian Professional League. Only preliminary matters were dealt with, but the representatives from Brantford, Galt and Kitchener definitely gave their assurance that teams from those cities would enter the new league.

SAILORS WILL MEET SAANICH IN FINAL GAME

Draw Tomorrow Will Give Navy Hayward Cup for First Time — Hudson's Bay to Play Batchelor's

TARS WILL FIELD STRONG LINE-UP

Determined to win the Hayward Cup for the first time since they have been playing in the midweek soccer loop, they Navy will be at full strength tomorrow when they battle Saanich United at the Royal Athletic Park. McKay will handle the whistle. The other match, the outcome of which will have no effect on the standing of the teams, will bring together the Hudson's Bay and Batchelor's Food Stores' representatives at Beacon Hill. Armstrong will referee. Kick-offs are set for 3 o'clock.

The match, which marks the completion of the Hayward Cup schedule, finds the Navy in first berth with an unbeaten record. Following two points behind is the youthful Saanich United, the only club that has a chance to do the sailors out of the cup. However, the United's chance of winning the Hayward Cup will pass with tomorrow's match should the Navy as much as gain a draw. On the other hand, a win for Saanich United will create a tie and necessitate a play-off for possession of the trophy. The teams will line up as follows:

Saanich United—Restall; Ashe, Wyke; Love, Molt, Rigby; Cann, Hawkes, Barry, Stoner and Troby.

Navy—Zanelli; A. Whyte, Plummer; Dyke, Robinson, Johnston; Plummer, Marr, Spradell, Watt and Cosler.

Don't be rigid in your grip for you must use the wrist in taking the club back and in sweeping it through the ball. The waggle is one way to insure free action in the wrists. Another way to make certain they function properly for you is to hold the club at an angle such a way that you can lift it straight up in front of you.

In fact, there is a slight bend of the wrists at stance. This causes the club and arms to form an angle as you address the ball. Otherwise your straight left arm would be a straight line extension of the shaft of your club. Then it would act like a poker, instead of like a whip. Next, we'll take up the faults accruing from twisting the arms to grip the club. Next, we'll consider the matter of stance ere going into the second of the three fundamentals of golf—the arms.

SEVEN PLAYERS OUT; OLIVER REDPATH AND O'MEARA NOT COMING

Former Defenceman of Cubs Trying Out With Pittsburgh Pirates and Will Not Report—O'Meara Released—Ottawa and Regina Amateurs Work Out With Regulars

Victoria Will Open Season Here Against Seattle Eskimos Nov. 19

Victoria's band of professional hockey players had their first workout of the season last night at the Willows Arena when seven prospective players went through an hour's light workout. Quite a number of railbirds were on hand to watch the boys go through their initial paces, but Manager Jocko Anderson refused to let the boys extend themselves and the time was spent in end-to-end combination rushes with no checking. A couple of local amateurs worked out with the pros.

The players on hand were Jack Kelly, Ernie Kenney, Herman and Paul Runge, of last year's team; Odie Lowe, who was signed yesterday morning and who played with the Seattle Eskimos last season, and Tommy McInelly, Ottawa amateur, and Ken Williamson, who came from the Regina St. Patricks for a tryout.

Jimmy Evans, the popular little centre man, who was holding out for more money, will report today along with Earl Robertson, diminutive goalie of last season's squad.

O'MEARA RELEASED
Cliff O'Meara, who captained the team for the greater part of last season, and who was later appointed playing manager, was wired his release by President Stanley Patrick, and is now a free lance as far as the Victoria Cubs are concerned. O'Meara suffered a serious injury early in the season and only played in a few games. He only played on the right wing.

Oliver Redpath, who played on the defence along with Ernie Kenney, will also be missing from the team this year. This year, Redpath had gone on to Pittsburgh for a tryout with the Pirates. The Cubs hold Redpath's contract and since the Pacific Coast Hockey League is affiliated with the National Hockey League, just what will happen in Redpath's case is uncertain.

The local president is willing to sell or trade the hunky defenceman and negotiate a new contract with "Cowboy" Priddy, who is trying out with the Pirates but what farm or ranch is not known.

Jackie Fields Retains Crown
Welterweight Champion Scores Knockout Over Dummy Mahan in Second Round of Mix

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 4.—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, tonight knocked out Dummy Mahan, San Francisco, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout. Both fighters entered the ring over the weight limit. Fields weighed 147½ and Mahan 150 pounds.

Mahan charged out at the bell in the first round and landed many blows to the head and body of the champion. Fields seemed surprised at the aggressiveness of the mite boxer, and was on the defensive most of the round.

At the start of the second round Fields regained his composure after a best steady tattoo of lefts and rights on Mahan's body which soon had Mahan groggy. A short left uppercut to the jaw was the deciding blow.

Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, refereed the bout, which drew more than 10,000 fans to the Convention Hall.

Jones Worried by West Point Winds

WATCH OUT FOR THOSE TERRIBLE WINDS WHEN YOU'RE CATCHING PUNTS!

TAD JONES WHEN HE WAS PLAYING, GOT AS MUCH ABOUT THESE PECULIAR WEST WINDS.

FOOTBALL PSYCHOLOGY
THAT AFTERNOON HE COULDN'T CATCH A PUNT.

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

"Psychology plays a big part in football," Coach Howard Jones, of the University of Southern California, told me the other day.

"On the train a discussion arose about the peculiar winds from the bluffs around West Point and how they bother a player catching punts, who isn't used to them."

JIMMY McLARNIN GETS DECISION OVER MANDELL

Vancouver Fighter Gives Lightweight King Bad Beating

Ten-Round Nontitle Battle Won by McLarnin by Wide Margin—Titleholder Sagged Under Heavy Attack—Von Porat Lands K.O.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Jimmy McLarnin defeated Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, in a ten-round nontitle contest tonight. McLarnin, crouching low, carried the fight to Mandell for the first three rounds. He chased the champion into a corner three times in the opening session, trying to connect with long left hooks and overhand rights to the chin. Mandell in the meantime kept popping a long left into McLarnin's face.

McLarnin staggered the champion twice in the second round. He chased Mandell into a corner and connected with a hard right to the chin. The blow knocked the champion back on his heels. An instant later he planted another hard right to the jaw after driving Mandell into a corner. Mandell was forced to hang on for a second.

McLarnin seemed to centre his attack on the body in an attempt to steal some of the champion's speed.

McLarnin was bleeding from the mouth before the first round ended. He began missing in the third, but continued to walk into the champion. Mandell also was missing and shook his head in disgust.

McLarnin appeared to have the advantage in the fourth and fifth with his whirlwind attack. He landed a left hook low in the groin in the fourth, but Mandell did not protest. In the fifth Mandell appeared to get the range with his left at the start of the session, but McLarnin quickly forced him into retreat with a heavy two-fisted attack to the body. He twice chased the champion into corners with right crosses to the chin. Mandell was forced to go into the corner in an attempt to escape.

McLARNIN FORCES ATTACK In the sixth McLarnin continued his merciless body attack, crowding in close and pounding away at the body as they clinched.

McLarnin gave Mandell a terrific punching in the seventh round, driving him to the ropes and then into the corners under a murderous attack to the body and head. Once he crossed his right, nearly knocking Mandell down. The distressed champion immediately retreated into a corner, but was unable to escape and stood there taking a lacing. McLarnin was guilty of hitting low at the start of the seventh and drew a caution from Referee Eddie Purdy.

Mandell began to show his championship class for a few seconds in the eighth, when he traded punches with McLarnin in midring. He hooked the Vancouver boy with a sharp right cross to the chin.

Mandell showed another dash of championship class in the ninth, winning the round. He began to block McLarnin's punches and hooked viciously to the body and crossed his right to the head.

McLarnin crossed a right to the jaw, staggering Mandell. In the tenth, after a furious exchange in midring, Mandell held him off with left extended straight into Jimmy's face, as he strode in a corner.

McLarnin backed Mandell into the ropes, inflicting heavy damage to the body. Mandell took a chance and mapped a right cross to the chin, but McLarnin shook him up with terrific left hooks to the chin and pounded away at the body. The crowd, sensing a knockout, was in an uproar. They were fighting furiously as the round ended in Mandell's favor with McLarnin having the advantage.

VON PORAT SCORES K.O. Otto Von Porat, giant Norwegian heavyweight, scored an impressive knockout over Charley Smith, of England, in the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout. Von Porat upset him with a left hook for the count of three and then knocked him out with a right smash to the chin.

Von Porat, growing heavier, scaled 202 pounds, with Smith weighing 191 lb.

IN LEGAL TERMS A lawyer thus illustrates the language of his craft: "If a man were to give another an orange. But when the transaction is entrusted to a lawyer to be put in writing, he uses this form: 'I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim and advantages of an in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp and pips, and all rights and advantages therein, with full power to bite, cut, suck, and otherwise to eat the same or give the same away with or without the rind, juice, pulp or pips, anything hereinbefore or hereinafter or in any other means of whatever nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.'"

The only country storekeeper ever heard of who was not troubled with loaves was one who had an insurance agency on the side.

Has Revenge Over Champ

WHO last night soundly trounced Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, in a no-decision fight over ten rounds. The Vancouver boy had a big edge in the bout and had Mandell in a bad way several times. Last year McLarnin met Mandell in a lightweight championship bout but took a sound lacing.

Hands Schwartz Bad Beating in Eliminations

Flyweight Champion of Belgium Gives Recognized American Contender Worst Licking of Career—Jewish Midget to Quit Ring

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Fresh from a sensational campaign in foreign fields, Eugene Huat, flyweight champion of Belgium, made his debut in Madison Square Garden tonight with a stirring ten-round victory over Izzy Schwartz, best of the American 112-pounders. The battle featured the first series of matches between leading contenders for the vacant world flyweight title.

So soundly did Huat, a slim, calm, solid-looking workman, trounce the widely recognized American champion, that Schwartz announced from the ring immediately after the decision, his permanent retirement from the ring.

Several times Huat, knockout victor over Spider Pladner, the French ace, and Frenchy Belanger, champion of Canada, had Schwartz reeling and all spent from slashing punches to the head. Izzy barely weathered the fourth, sixth, seventh and final rounds.

Local Swimmers to Complete Training Tomorrow for Gala

Will Be Expected to Make Good Showing Against Mainland Invasion in Thanksgiving Day Championship Meet

Members of Victoria's men's and women's relay teams and the water polo team will wind up their training for the British Columbia championship gala on Thanksgiving Day, November 11, tomorrow night at the Crystal Garden. The workouts will start at 8:30 o'clock.

In the men's relay, the locals will pit a fast team against the invading Vancouver swimmers, who will be over in full force for the meet. Three members of the Victoria team, Frank Gilbert, V.A.S.C.; Don Wilson, Brentwood College, and Alex Thomson, of Ladysmith, have been definitely decided upon, but the fourth place is still unfilled. Bill Findlay, Bill Robertson, Wilfred Loughed and two other Brentwood College stars will fight it out tonight for the honor to represent the capital city in this championship event.

Tommy Wellburn, one-time holder of numerous Canadian and British Columbia championships, and one of Victoria's mainstays in previous galas, is not expected to be on hand this year.

The women's honors will be upheld by Phyllis Hodgson, Ruth Marriott, Wanda Spencer, Winnie Pollard, Betty Pollard and Edna Hoeking. Frank Gilbert, Bill Robertson, Bert Buller, Gibson, J. Cameron, Bill Findlay, R. W. Hiberson, Art Stot and Wilfred Loughed will comprise the polo players from which the team to battle Vancouver will be selected.

The Mainland contingent will be one of the strongest that has ever set foot in Victoria, and one that is expected to force the local swimmers to the limit in order to carry off the greater share of the many championships at stake.

Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Miss Helen Mackenzie will attend the gala, as well as Mrs. Herbert Anson, wife of Mayor Anson, of this city. Mrs. Anson will present the prizes at the completion of the many events.

The full programme follows: 1—50 yards free style, girls ages 11 to 18 inclusive, for George Armstrong Cup. (Open to members of V.A.S.C. only.)

Court Upholds Washington State On Boxing Statute

SEATTLE, Nov. 4.—Overruling a demurrer which contended that the state anti-boxing statute is unconstitutional, Superior Judge John A. Frater today held that Lonnie Austin and George W. Bishop, Seattle boxing promoters, could be prosecuted by the state for violation of the law.

"Counsel has made his argument forcefully, and I am not sure but what there is much merit in it," Judge Frater said. "But there is a doubt in my mind whether the law is unconstitutional."

"Where there is doubt I feel it is the duty of the court to resolve that doubt in favor of the state and permit the state Supreme Court to decide on this later."

Deputy Prosecutor Ralph Hammer asserted that Austin and Bishop will be requested to appear in Superior Court tomorrow and plead. The promoters said they would plead "not guilty."

Austin and Bishop promoted a bout between Leo Lomski and Jack Willis, October 1, which the prosecutor contends was a "prize fight" in violation of the state law.

J. MATSON WINS C. & M. TROPHY

Defeats Judge Lampman 4 and 2 in Final of Challenger & Mitchell Cup at Victoria Golf Club

By his 4 and 2 victory over Judge P. S. Lampman in the final at the Victoria Golf Club Sunday, Jack Matson takes possession of the Challenger & Mitchell Cup for the next twelve months. Both players showed some fine golf throughout the tourney, but the steady performance of Matson was too much for the jurist in the eighteen-hole final.

R. Peachey and H. G. Garrett, finalists in the first, failed to come to a decision when they finished all square after a nip-and-tuck battle from the first green to the last. The couple will play another match in an effort to decide a winner.

Second flight honors went to H. E. Hunningham when he defeated Roy Hadley in the final, 4 and 3.

Members of the J.B.A.A. intermediate Rugby team are asked to attend a practice tonight at 8 o'clock at the Gorge clubhouse.

NURSES HOME AT ESSONDALE TO BE OPENED

Miss Loughheed Will Perform Ceremony — Premier to Lay Corner Stone of Chronic Building

PROMINENT PEOPLE WILL PARTICIPATE

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Prime Minister of the Province, is on the mainland, having crossed over on Sunday to keep several appointments early this week. One of the main events at which he is to officiate today is that of the laying of the corner stone of the female chronic building at Essondale, which is under contract, and well advanced in the work.

In this connection the Premier will lay the corner stone, while immediately following this act Miss Ethel Loughheed, sister of Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Public Works, will formally open the nurses' home which has been completed and is ready for occupation.

The contractors, Pacific Engineers Ltd., through Col. W. W. Foster, the head of the firm, have issued invitations to provincial and Federal Government officials, the mayors of

For Colonel Foster the occasion is unique, inasmuch as he held the position of Deputy Minister of Public Works at the time of the laying of the corner stone for the first Essondale building.

It is expected that Dr. W. H. Sutherland and Mr. Thomas Taylor, both former Ministers of Public Works, will be in attendance at the ceremony.

AUTO DRIVERS PAY FINES FOR DRIVING TO COMMON DANGER

Found guilty on a charge of driving to the common danger, Edward P. Woodman, a member of the crew of the S. S. Kaituma, was fined $100 in the Oak Bay police court yesterday morning.

The charge followed an accident on Saturday afternoon on Beach Drive, near Newport Avenue, in which the car driven by Woodman skidded 180 feet into a fence.

In the city police court, Roderick Macfarlane, who crashed into a telephone pole on Esquimalt Road, at Catherine Street, last Friday night, was ordered to pay a fine of $80 when he pleaded guilty, through his counsel, R. C. Lowe, to a charge of driving to the common danger.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL

B.C. Historical Association Has Three Representatives at Interesting Event at Discovery Bay

The British Columbia Historical Association was represented on Saturday at the unveiling of a monument to Captain George Vancouver on the west side of Discovery Bay, some thirty miles east of Port Angeles, Washington.

Messrs. H. T. Nation, C. C. Remberton and W. A. Newcombe were appointed to respond to the invitation from the Daughters of the American Revolution, Michael T. T. Chapter, Port Angeles, Mrs. Matt Sawyer, regent, which chapter had erected the monument and made all arrangements for this historic event.

In brilliant sunshine the company assembled and the Victoria delegates met with the local persons from other historical societies.

The stone itself was a bolder of granite set up on two cement steps. It was flanked on one side by an American flag and on the other by a Canadian flag. It is erected on the side of the highway as near as possible to the spot where Captain Vancouver made his first landing on the shore of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and is to commemorate this landing.

Among the historical points mentioned by Mr. Nation, speaking for the delegation, were the dedication on November 19, 1925, of the monument built on Gonzales Hill, Victoria, to commemorate the navigators of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and the celebrations on April 29, 1927, carried out by the Native Sons of British Columbia and the Native Sons of Canada of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, and participated in by Victoria to the extent of burning a huge signal bonfire in Beacon Park to correspond to that burned at Dunqueness at the same time.

On Saturday, after the simple unveiling ceremony was carried out by the state regent, the delegates were driven back to Port Angeles by a detour which took them to the site of the bonfire at Dunqueness.

Late, the spot at the mouth of Ennis Creek, near the city where Paul Kane made his painting of the fight between the Gilaam and Ennis Indians was visited.

The British Columbia Historical Association extended its heartfelt greetings on this memorable occasion when honor was done to a famous British navigator to the host chapter.

As secretary of the B.C. Historical Association, Major Nation stated on his return that the society was delighted to have been able to take part in this celebration. "It completes," he said, "the international expression of amity with regard to Captain Vancouver's exploits in these waters, which are now suitably commemorated in both countries. Through Victoria and Port Angeles there has now been established a truly Canadian-American portal into Puget Sound."

NEW INDIAN SCHOOL OPEN AT ALERT BAY

Commissioner Ditchburn Performs Opening Ceremony — Witnessed by Representative Gathering

PIONEER TEACHER ADDRESSES INDIANS

ALERT BAY, Nov. 2 (By Mail).—The official opening of the new Indian residential school at Alert Bay was held on Saturday. The weather was glorious and brilliant sunshine smiled on a large crowd of visitors, some of whom were old boys and girls of the school, and some parents of those at present there, many of whom had come from long distances. The children started in procession from the old buildings, the boys led by Peter Neaslos, head boy of the boys' school, and Rhoda Cook, head of the girls' school; these two carried flags for church and state. They were followed by the members of the staff.

On the veranda of the new school were assembled Mr. W. E. Ditchburn, Indian Commissioner for British Columbia, assisted by Mr. W. M. Halliday, Indian Agent of the district, to represent the state, and Archdeacon Laycock, of Victoria, Archdeacon Heathcote, of Vancouver, and Rev. Mr. C. K. K. Prosser, of Alert Bay, to represent the church.

Mr. W. E. Ditchburn, Indian Commissioner, at the request of Mr. Anfield, principal, raised the school flag for the first time, during the singing of the National Anthem. The principal then requested Mr. Ditchburn to unlock the building and allow the pupils and visitors to enter for the purpose of occupation and dedication to the glory of God, and the education of Indian children of this Coast. Mr. Ditchburn, assisted by Mr. W. M. Halliday, unlocked the door and the children and visitors passed into the auditorium.

BISHOP'S GREETING

When they were all seated, Archdeacon Laycock read a letter of greeting from Right Rev. C. de V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, regretting his inability to be present and praying for God's blessing on the schools. After a short prayer by Archdeacon Laycock, the hymn, "Christ Is Made the Sure Foundation," was sung.

The principal then asked Mr. W. M. Halliday, Indian Agent, to act as chairman, which Mr. Halliday consented to do. In a happy speech Mr. Halliday traced the growth of the schools from the days of Rev. A. J. Hall, the first missionary, and Mr. R. H. Piddock, Indian Agent, by whose joint efforts the first school was built thirty-four years ago. This was only for boys, and Mr. Corker was made principal. He also spoke of the great help received from time to time from the Women's Auxiliary.

Mr. W. E. Ditchburn spoke of the growing interest in the Dominion Government was showing in Indian education. This year the Government has already spent $475,000 on schools as compared with $131,519 in 1924. This new building in Alert Bay has cost $225,000. He then formally handed over the keys of the school to Archdeacon F. C. C. Heathcote, on receiving the keys, announced that the school shall be named: St. Michael's Indian Residential School. The Archdeacon, in his address, said that, as so often happened, the church began a work which the state promised to help, and how magnificently the state had kept its promise was shown by the beautiful building opened today.

DEDICATION PRAYER

Archdeacon Heathcote then said the prayer of dedication and the collect for St. Michael's, after which the whole assembly joined in singing the Doxology.

The chairman then called on

Rev. A. W. Corker, the principal of the first school, to say a few words. Mr. Corker spoke more especially to the Indians, his address being given in Kwa-kwaka. He told them how it pleased him to be there, and he hoped that as they had begun, so they would continue with Jesus as their teacher.

Captain E. M. McBrayne, M.C., district cadet officer, M.D. 11, emphasized the importance of physical training in a school. He congratulated the school rifle team on winning a first class certificate. Rev. A. R. Letta, principal of St. George's Residential School, Lytton, B.C., an old colleague of Mr. Anfield, congratulated the school on having Mr. Anfield as principal, and Mr. Anfield on the beautiful building given into his charge. Rev. George H. Raley, principal of Coquille Residential School, Sarnia, B.C., brought congratulations and greetings from Coquille. He spoke of the new power education was bringing the Indian people. Rev. John Anfield, of the Comoxia Coast Mission, spoke of the part that the village day schools played, likening them to "feeders" for the residential schools. Mr. Anfield read a letter from St. Dunstan Scott, superintendent-general for Indian Affairs, sending his congratulations and hopes that boys and girls, graduates and parents, would work together for the benefit of Indian people.

After the addresses, the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God," was sung, and the benediction pronounced by Rev. F. C. C. Heathcote, Archdeacon of Vancouver.
